Government To Seize Refineries In Oil Industry Strike

President Will Order Seizure Of Oil Refineries

Government To Take Over Refineries In Oil Industry Strike To End Tieup

FAIL TO REACH STRIKE AGREEMENT

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Truman will order government seizure of struck refineries today to end a coast-to-coast oil tieup threatening the nation's military operations and post-war reconversion effort.

The White House said the president will make a complete statement on the situation.

Use of the wartime seizure weapon in a labor dispute became necessary for the second time since V-J Day when the government's effort to settle the prolonged oil-wage controversy by conciliation and arbitration failed.

The CIO oil workers union, which has 36,000 members on strike in a dozen states, agreed to accept a four-point federal plan of settlement, but industry representatives rejected the proposal.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Some old timers recall that the site now being utilized in large extensions to the Shenango Pottery, near Grant street, served for some years as the site for circuses that visited New Castle.

The frost was not only on the pumpkin in New Castle and Lawrence county this morning, but on most everything else, as well. The first noticeably heavy frost of the fall in this vicinity was in evidence early this morning.

Many flowers were looking slightly beaten down by last night's nip of frost, but scarlet sage, asters, and marigolds were blooming as gaily as ever this morning. "Winter isn't here yet," a neighbor told Pa Newc as he examined the buds on his chrysanthemums.

From appearances around the lobby at the post office, mailing of holiday packages to men and women in service is lagging, or else the number this year will be only a small part of those sent in several previous years. October 15 is the deadline for mailing overseas packages for Christmas this year.

According to suggestions by some writers at Washington, most everybody will get a salary raise during the coming year, if they are employed. The idea is that the tax reductions planned by Congress will mean that less will be taken out of the pay envelopes by the government, hence a salary increase to the worker.

New Castle high school football team will make the first trip away from Taggart stadium for a game this season, on Saturday, when Altoon high school team will be played at Altoona. For fans who desire to follow the team, the route is easy. The auto route from New Castle is 422, through Butler, Kittanning, Indiana, Ebensburg and Duncansville. Just beyond Duncansville a lateral up to Altoona is taken from route 422.

Congress Leaders Would Go Slow On Outlawing A-Bomb

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Congressional leaders today gave "high priority" to administration legislation for domestic control of atomic energy but sounded a slow-down warning on President Truman's plan for a world ban on the atomic bomb.

There was general agreement on Mr. Truman's request for an atomic energy commission to handle a domestic economic problem as complex as the nuclear world itself.

But Sen. Tom Connally (D) Tex., chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, declared that the president's program for international negotiations to renounce the use of the atom bomb should be taken "after thought and careful consideration".

"Plenty of Time"

"We have plenty of time for such negotiations," Connally said.

He added that he may introduce a bill of his own on atom control.

President Truman's message to congress insisted that international agreements to outlaw the bomb and encourage development of atomic energy for humanitarian needs, must be reached at the "earliest possible date". He proposed, there-

Sweeping Orders Issued For Japan By Gen. M'Arthur

Door Is Opened For Political Reforms And Possible Overthrow Of Emperor

CABINET MEMBER ORDERED OUSTED

By JOHN R. HENRY
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Oct. 4.—Gen. Douglas MacArthur lashed out against the Jap government today in a sweeping directive which opened the door for political reforms including possible overthrow of Emperor Hirohito.

The supreme allied commander moved abruptly into Japan's disturbed international affairs and ordered the dismissal of a cabinet officer, the abolition of all laws restricting civil, political or religious liberties, and the release of all political prisoners.

Dissolution of the Japanese "thought" police and dismissal of all civil and regular police officials connected with the "thought" police also was decreed.

No Ban On Discussion

The directive was contained in a letter to the Jap government and specifically mentioned that there should be no ban against pro or con discussion of "the emperor, the imperial institution or the imperial Japanese government".

The cabinet minister ordered dismissed was Home Minister Iwao Yamazaki, who only yesterday had said he intended to keep all communists in custody and to continue to have the "thought" police round up all persons who hold communistic views.

MacArthur's four-point order, heralding a new freedom for the Japanese common people, directed that all political prisoners be released by Oct. 10, and that 15 specific laws be abolished plus all other laws implementing Jap police control.

The order for the removal of Yamazaki marked the first time

Half Million In U. S. Air Force Is Need Of Future

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Army Air Forces, has informed Congress that an air force of 400,000 to 500,000 men is needed for the future protection of the United States.

The force would be composed of 70 combat groups stationed at strategic bases in the United States and overseas.

Arnold outlined the air corps' future plants, it was revealed today, at a closed meeting of the House Appropriations committee, which is now considering cut-backs in current funds as a result of the sudden termination of the war.

The AAF head told the committee that the number of planes composing a combat group varied. A fighter group, for example, consisted of about 80 airplanes, while bomber and other groups differed in number.

Need 5,000 to 6,000 Planes

On the basis of this, however, committee members estimated that 5,000 to 6,000 first line planes would be needed to maintain 70 air groups.

Units would be stationed all over the world, many far distant from continental United tSates, with a strategic force based in this country which could be moved rapidly to any overseas point.

Arnold told the committee that what America needed was not a gigantic air force but one with a "great deal of striking force."

He emphasized the need for flex-

Press Of State Given Much Praise For Aid In War

Governor Martin Speaks In Pittsburgh In Observance Of 'Newspaper Week'

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin declared today that the need for newspaper service and leadership to the public was greater than ever before.

Speaking at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Kiwanis club in observance of National Newspaper Week, the chief executive said the need can be met "by an inteligent and courageous press, so long as that press remains free and the sources and channels of news remain open."

"In the war that has just ended, the newspapers of America made a tremendous contribution to final victory, both on the home fronts and the battle fronts," he said.

Great War Aid

"Without the help of the newspapers, freely given under great handicaps, the whole American war effort would have been greatly handicapped," Governor Martin declared. "The newspapers made it possible for the government to reach the people.

"Among the greatest contributions made by any industry during the war was the self-censorship of the press," he stated. "Both our Allies and our enemies held this to be impossible. There has never been anything like it in the history of war.

"The press has a proud record," Governor Martin said. "The newspaper profession is not perfect, and it does not claim to be perfect. Every profession has its selfish and unethical members. That cannot be helped. But we can claim for the 136 dailies and 401 weekly newspapers in Pennsylvania a high degree of decency ethics, unselfishness and public service," he asserted.

Truman Orders W. P. B. To End On November 3

Will Be Replaced By Civilian Production Administration At That Time

FIVE BUREAUS FOR NEW ORGANIZATION

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—President Truman dissolved the War Production Board today and ordered a Civilian Production Administration set up in its place.

The president took the action through an executive order, and the agency which was responsible largely for the tremendous production of implements for war will be terminated November 3.

C. P. A. To Function

WPB Chairman J. A. Krug is resigning effective the same date. The White House said that J. D. Small, who has been chief of staff of WPB, will head the new Civilian Production Administration which begins operations also on November 3.

Small simultaneously disclosed that the functions of CPA will be concentrated in five main bureaus.

These divisions will be concerned with industrial operations, priorities, field operations, international supply and the orderly demobilization of former WPB functions.

Small said that the compliance division has been instructed to continue its expanded investigations during the next few months to prevent possible violators from "getting an unfair advantage over the vast majority of business concerns which have always tried to comply with our orders."

Court Decision Refuses Bail To Ellwood Man

Anthony Condella, charged with the murder of Isaac Ralph Swartzfager of Ellwood City, must remain in the county jail until the December term of court without bail. This decision was handed down this morning by Judge John G. Lamoree.

An unusual feature of the case is that Judge W. Walter Braham, president judge, dissented from Judge Lamoree's view and handed down a dissenting opinion and said after some written discussion of the habeas corpus proceeding instituted by Condella, "entertaining these views, I would admit the defendant to bail". Judge Lamoree's decision stands, however, as it was concurred in by Judge William B. Purvis of Butler, who was brought in to break the apparent deadlock between the two judges.

On Saturday night, September 15, Anthony Condella shot and killed Isaac Ralph Swartzfager in front of a cafe on West Lawrence avenue, Ellwood City, following a dispute inside the cafe. Condella was arrested shortly after by Chief Clark Ricer of Ellwood City and was committed to the county jail by Justice of the Peace J. E. Van Gorder.

Asks Habeas Corpus

Condella asked for a writ of habeas corpus and to be permitted bail until December upon the grounds that the crime could not reach first degree murder. On September 20 Judges Braham and Lamoree heard the petition, which was opposed by District Attorney Leroy K. Donaldson. No opinion came

U. S. Nation-Wide Four-Hour Phone Tieup On Friday

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The first nation-wide telephone tie-up in the United States was scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. EST, tomorrow and end four hours later.

The work stoppage was ordered by the national federation of telephone workers, representing 250,000 operators and maintenance workers.

During the four hour "holiday" the union members, who are not affiliated with either the AFL or CIO, will vote on a resolution calling for a strike in protest against a national labor relations board ruling recommending dissolution of Kearny, N. J., affiliate of the union.

Spokesmen for the union said the only possibility of halting the four hour demonstration was for the NLRB to revoke its dissolution order.

The Union charges that the NLRB orders places the Kearny local into an alliance with the Con-

Witnesses Tell New Brutalities

Defendants In Concentration Camp Trials Losing Arrogant Manner

LUENEBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—A young Jewess who suffered in the Belsen horror camp testified today at the trial of Joseph Kramer and his aides that one Belsen guard shot a girl internee and forced another girl to drink her murdered comrade's blood.

This revolting disclosure, leveled against Eric Barsch, came after additional witnesses confirmed previous stories of sadistic savagery, murder and cannibalism at the Belsen and Auschwitz concentration camps.

The day's most sensational testimony came after Kramer, the "Beast of Belsen," and his confederates began to show the strain of their trial. With witness after witness piling up evidence of the inhumanity and cold brutality of the guards, the defendants lost their cocky manner.

Murdered Girl

The young Jewess charged from the witness stand that Barsch had murdered a girl inmate in the presence of a thirsty comrade. After the murder, Barsch turned to the living girl, and said:

"You're thirsty, aren't you?"

When the girl answered "yes," Barsch forced her to drink the victim's blood.

In the face of this and similar testimony Kramer and the other defendants visibly sagged.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The Public Utility commission had on file today an application from Guy M. Miller, operating the Miller Aviation Center, Pittsburg, for permission to operate an airline within a radius of 175 miles from Pittsburgh to practically all towns in that area, including New Castle.

Miller told the commission the service was necessary to provide "quick and emergency trips" for doctors and officials of large firms "and other people necessary for the better interests of the public welfare when existing airline schedules and routes cannot supply the service."

Tax Reduction Measure Nearly Ready For House

Ways And Means Committee Considers Possible Action On Wartime Excess Profits

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The House Ways and Means committee prepared to vote for elimination of the wartime excess profits tax as its last major hurdle before drafting its postwar tax reduction measure for submission to the House.

Proponents for outright repeal of the 95 percent levy on corporation wartime profits apparently won out over initial opposition from Committee Chairman Doughton (D) N. C.

Doughton had proposed instead that the excess profits tax rate be reduced and that corporation surtax be cut, in order to spread tax relief to all segments of American business.

Abandons Stand

Doughton decided to abandon his stand following a special meeting of Democratic committee members late Wednesday and agreed to support the motion of Rep. Robertson (D) Va., for outright appeal.

Still in the bill was the Carlson plan to retain the 3 percent normal tax, with increased exceptions, and reduce surtax rates by four percentage points all along the line.

This proposal has the effect of reducing the basic tax rate on in-

Round-The-World Plane On Last Lap Of Record Flight

Plane Takes Off From San Francisco For Washington This Morning

EXPECT TO REACH CAPITAL TONIGHT

By INEZ ROBB
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD THE GLOBSTER, En Route To Washington, Oct. 4.—Less than six days ago we soared away from Washington, D. C., on a record-making round-the-world flight and early today we are winging back to the nation's capital.

The Army Air Force's luxury passenger plane started her last lap from Hamilton Field, just north of San Francisco, at 5:36 a. m. PST today.

We soared out past the Golden Gate, which we did not see either coming or going because of the early morning darkness.

But our navigator First Lt. Henry L. George, of Connellsville, Pa., told us it was still there and since all ATC navigators have been on the beam all around the world, we certainly won't question him.

It's a small world after all, and you can quote me as saying so.

When you can fly from Washington, D. C. to San Francisco, in a round-the-world detour in less than six days, the world is shrinking like a pair of red flannels in a spring rain.

The record-breaking round-the-world Globster arrived at San Fran-

The frost come down like a fleecy wrap and settled on meadow and vine, not a noise it made, but by watching close, you could see it form, silky and fine. And it ruined some peppers and nipped the corn and tomatoes got socked in the knees, but the hay fever victims are cheering today for they now see the end of their sneeze. You can look for it now every night I would think, for the calendar shows it's the date, so pick off the crops that the frost didn't get, the weather is cool, fifty-eight.

Worthwhile To Belong To Third Class Organization

When Mayor John F. Haven today asked council delegates to the Third Class Cities convention to make a report of recent convention proceedings at Harrisburg, D. O. Davies, public safety director, replied that the proceedings had been informative and added: "I believe that it is worthwhile for the city of New Castle to belong to the league."

Messrs J. D. Alexander, and James Gibson, parks and streets bureaus, respectively, echoed Davies remarks.

Gibson reported that of the 1945 gasoline tax refund, a move sponsored by Third Class Cities league, this city would receive in 1945 approxiately $25,000.

It was also reported by the returned delegates that every Third Class city in Pennsylvania which belongs, has paid up dues in the body.

The substance of their remarks was that "the league and membership therein, is beneficial."

cisco at 2:10 this morning, preparatory to her final non-stop flight to Washington, D. C.

She landed 20 minutes ahead of schedule.

Only one more country to cross—the good old USA—and we shall be right back at our starting point, the nation's capital.

Reach Washington Tonight

Barring bad weather or any untoward incident, the Globster should readily finish her round-the-world tour in the scheduled period of six and one quarter days. She is expected to arrive in Washington by 11 o'clock tonight.

The eight indestructible round-the-world trippers who have made the entire journey are confident the Globster will roll in under the Washington wire well ahead of the deadline which is midnight tonight.

Both we and the Globster are still going strong, although the trippers are beginning to look a little worse for wear. I am in dire need of a manicure, shampoo, facial and massage. In fact, I need a whole resurfacing job.

The seven gents are beginning to look a little bleary-eyed, too. They are:

Fred Otham, of the United Press; Paul Miller, of Associated Press, four official observers for the Army Air Force's air transport command, Col. Major S. White flight surgeon; Col. Carl B. Allen, Maj. James W. Speer, and Capt. Philip R. Warth, and Quentin R. Porter, official ATC photographer.

Many On Short Trips

In addition to the eight die-hard, global trippers, the Globster has carried approximately 100 different passengers who have boarded the plane en route to fly "short distances."

There were 25 passengers aboard the Globster when she landed in San Francisco. Seventeen were American prisoners of war, now on the last leg of the long journey home from Japanese prisons, who boarded the Globster in Manila.

Twelve different ATC crews were employed in making the flight from Washington to San Francisco.

The longest hop of the journey was 2,448 miles over the Pacific from Kwajalein to Honolulu. The longest hop in point of time was that of Honolulu to San Francisco, consuming 12 hours and 30 minutes.

I left Hawaii all dressed up in a lei and no place to go but home—and that's where I'm headed. The Globster streaked across the Pacific from Honolulu to San Fransicco with a wind on her tail and a speed of 230 miles per hour.

HOSPITALS FEEL STRIKE

economy, CPA will inherit some 55 controls from WPB's peak total of 650 orders and schedules over materials and supplies.

It will also be charged with administering the new simplified priorities system which replaced the elaborate wartime preference plan for materials on September 30.

Remaining controls are designed to prevent speculative buying and hoarding of inventories and restrict consumption of items in short supply, such as tin, rubber, lead and some textiles.

In addition, the new preference ratings, "MM" and "CC" will be assigned to assure the delivery of necessary military equipment and break reconversion bottlenecks.

Some of the 55 controls, which may be cut to about 40 within the near future, will be used to insure the success of the low-cost clothing program. WPB is committed to full cooperation with OPA in the campaign to peg clothing prices at 1941 levels and increase the supply of low-cost apparel.

Schwellenbach said he now will turn his attention to the spreading coal strikes and the threatened national walkout of 200,000 telephone workers. The latter already have a "demonstration" stoppage scheduled tomorrow from 2 to 6 p. m. EST., but union officials have expressed fears the workers may jump the gun.

Mine Strike Tieup

An estimated 115,000 miners, producing one-third of the nation's bituminous supply, are idle in the dispute between UMW President John L. Lewis and coal operators over the unionization of mine foremen. Retail coal shipments have been suspended in six districts to conserve supplies for essential use.

Auto Industry Crisis

In Detroit, the gathering crisis in the automobile industry was tightened by General Motors' rejection of the CIO United Automobile Workers demand for a 30 per cent wage boost. Strike votes are scheduled Oct. 24-25, respectively, in GM and Chrysler plants and will be sought later at Ford.

A similar wage demand, put forward by the oil workers and most other big CIO unions, was the basic issue in the petroleum dispute which still remains unsettled. The unions are seeking the increase to offset an equal cut in earnings through loss of wartime overtime pay.

Deadlocked Negotiations

Several oil companies offered a 15 per cent increase, but during eight days of deadlocked negotiations with federal conciliators, "nobody gave," Schwellenbach said.

The secretary proposed a compromise involving an immediate end of the strike, return to a 40-hour week with a 15 per cent wage boost and arbitration of the difference between 15 per cent and the union's 30 per cent demand.

The companies—with the exception of Sinclair which accepted Schwellenbach's program without qualification—agreed to arbitration starting from scratch, no increase to 30 per cent, but refused arbitration beginning at the 15 per cent boost proposed by the secretary. They also interposed other conditions.

fore, to open discussions first with Great Britain and Canada, which helped develop the bomb, and later with other nations.

Those discussions, the president added, would not include the secret process for manufacture of the atomic bomb which brought Japan to her knees.

Measures Introduced

Mr. Truman's historic message had no sooner been read to congress than administration bills creating a nine-member commission to assume complete control of existing facilities, policy and development of atomic energy were introduced in the senate and house.

Sen. Johnson (D) Colo., offered the senate bill and Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the house military affairs committee, introduced the house bill.

President Truman, in simple language, gauged the immensity of the new atomic era.

"It may some day prove to be more revolutionary in the development of human society than the invention of the wheel, the use of metals or the steam or internal combustion engine," he said.

Full of Danger

"Never in history has society been confronted with a power so full of potential danger and at the same time so full of promise for the future of man and for the peace of the world."

First, he said, the nation must determine its domestic policy—a decision which "we cannot postpone". He then declared:

"The hope of civilization lies in international arrangements looking, if possible, to the renunciation of the use of atomic energy and all future scientific information toward peaceful and humanitarian ends. . . The alternative to overcoming these difficulties may be a desperate armament race which might well end in disaster."

bility and adaptability in maintaining an air force, asserting that the AAF must always be able to keep in step with scientific advances in the air.

Of the 400,000 to 500,000 men composing the future AAF, perhaps 100,000 would be composed of the men who actually flew the planes, the remainder being divided among ground crews, maintenance and other base personnel.

The Army Air Forces was composed of approximately 2,300,000 men of V-J Day and is now down to about two million men.

MacArthur has shown any disposition to re-arrange the personnel of the Jap cabinet and was a staggering blow to the already doubtful prestige of that body.

Shortly before the dismissal order, Yamazaki disclosed that MacArthur had requested from the cabinet minister a list of all political prisons where Japanese were lodged for "dangerous thoughts".

The ensuing developments gave added hope to liberal groups and presaged the early fall of the present cabinet which has been criticized for its lack of regard for the will of the people and its failure to institute an effective reconstruction program.

Meanwhile, in the wake of an announcement that Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita will be tried shortly after Oct. 8 in Manila for atrocities committed against allied nationals, headquarters disclosed that all known war prisoners and civilian internees have been evacuated from Japan and Korea.

Of 32,407 prisoners and internees listed by the Japs, 30,805 are enroute home; 1,390 are known to have died and 212 are classed as stragglers. The total included 10,099 Americans, 957 Canadians, 9,370 Britons, 2,108 Australians, 7,581 Dutch and 690 others.

dividual incomes from 23 to 19 percent, and is estimated to save individual taxpayers two and a half billion dollars in 1946.

The committee, meanwhile, learned that the deficit for the calendar year 1946 will total thirteen billion dollars, including the five billion cut contemplated in the present measure.

May Not Cut Excise Tax

There is a possibility, however, that the tax reduction figure might approach six billion dollars, should the committee decide to terminate wartime excise tax rates and repeal the capital stock tax.

Repeal of the excess profits tax would cost the government two billion 555 million dollars; reductions of excise taxes 547 million; elimination of the capital stock tax 230 million.

These reductions, together with the cut in personal income taxes, would make the bill an over-all cut of five billion, 832 million dollars.

There was a possibility, that in order to keep somewhere near Treasury Secretary Vinson's limit of a five billion dollar tax reduction, the committee will take no action on excise taxes at this time. Vinson suggested that the wartime levies on whiskey, beer, furs, jewelry, and other luxury items should be brought back to their 1942 tax levels on July 1, next.

Irma Grese, leader of the girl guards at Belsen, had caught a starving girl stealing potato peelings. She forced the victim to hold the peelings over her head until she collapsed. Then Grese beat her severely.

Other affidavits charged that Irma made inmates of the camp hold heavy stones over their heads for hours.

Another revealed that a group of internees seeking to warm themselves about a fire were attacked by Kramer's vicious dogs. The inmates were either felled by the savage dogs, or thrown into the fire in their frantic attempts to escape.

COURT DECISION REFUSES BAIL TO ELLWOOD MAN

down and on September 27 Judge William B. Purvis was brought in and the petition was heard again this time by three judges.

Apparently Judge Purvis agreed with the viewpoint of Judge Lamoree and took the position that Condella was not entitled to bail. In handing down his decision Judge Lamoree made no comment upon the evidence offered "for obvious reasons". The opinion said "the prayer of the petitioner is refused and the writ dismissed. The petitioner Anthony Condella is remanded to the county jail in conformity with the commitment of Justice of the Peace J. E. Van Gorder, September 17, 1945."

Dissenting Opinion

Filed at the same time was Judge Braham's dissenting opinion. He then cites article one, section 14 of the Pennsylvania constitution which says "all prisoners shall be bailable by sufficient sureties unless for capital offenses where the proof is evident or the presumption great."

Said Judge Braham: "This constitutional provision was written when all murders of the first degree were punishable by death, and the inquiry therefore is whether the case presents the aspects of first degree murder, not whether it may be first degree murder with the death penalty because that would be clearly invading the province of the jury."

"The commonwealth relies upon the defendant's use of a deadly weapon upon a vital part of the body but this raises no presumption of first degree murder. Apparently the deceased had waited for the defendant. There is no evidence of prior threats, and no evidence of flight. The commonwealth may have evidence of a willful, deliberate, premeditated killing, but I do not find it in the evidence. Entertaining these views I would admit the defendant to bail."

As the matter stands now, Condella must remain in the county jail until the December grand jury passes upon the bill of indictment charging him with murder which includes first and second degree and manslaughter.

AWNING BLAZE

An alarm from box 31 called city firemen to Tom's Fruit Market, at 373 East Washington street, at 1:53 a. m. today, where it was found someone had set fire to the awning, presumably from a lighted cigaret. The damage was slight.

D. A. R. WAR FUND BOOK REVIEW PROJECT

Last year the National Daughters of the American Revolution collected $61,200 in its war fund. Some of this amount was spent in buying portable X-ray machines for seven of our new ships, also ambulances where most needed.

Two thousand patients in the Mayo General hospital at Galesburg, Ill., were supplied with earphones. These phones are made with five different plug-ins so that a variety of programs are available. Two thousand dollars was given to help with the painting of triptychs, the three-sided screens used as a background for altars.

This year the chief project is occupational therapy at Ellis Island where a wing of the hospital has been taken over by the Daughters of the American Revolution to equip.

Extra Care Needed By Motorists

All the warnings directed at motorists when gasoline rationing ended did not prevent a sharp rise in traffic fatalities. Within two weeks after the government lifted restrictions, according to the National Safety Council, the country piled up an August death toll that was 26 per cent higher than in the same month last year.

That is rather conclusive proof that, with more gasoline available, drivers are returning to prewar habits. Even the fact that tires are still rationed and hard to get has not persuaded them to keep their mileage down and to maintain wartime speeds. As the council's report puts it: "All over the country, war-worn cars were being driven, on war-worn tires, over war-worn roads at speeds too fast for safety—and by drivers a bit war-worn themselves."

The chances are, moreover, that the record will grow worse before it grows better. Old cars must last a great deal longer, obviously, and most of them will have to be run on their present tires for months. As for the roads, it will be years before some are restored to their former condition.

So there is point in the plea that drivers and pedestrians use "a little extra care" in the months ahead. That is about all there is to fight the specter of a traffic toll on the scale of the prewar model. It cannot be done with better cars and improved roads—at least not yet.

A Great Lesson From War

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky recently completed a five-months tour of Europe as special consultant to the War department. His assignment was to study the part played by the airplane in the defeat of Germany. His report, as might be expected from the author of "Victory Through Air Power," contains some startling suggestions and bold assumptions along with much sound thinking.

For example, Major de Seversky expresses great respect for German achievements in military research and urges that the scientists responsible be brought to this country as "a prize of war" so that they can carry on their work. Again, he declares that jet propulsion is only in its infancy and prophesies that within ten years "aircraft as we know it today will go out of existence." Nothing, he insists, can be "salvaged from the existing equipment for our future national defense."

But if there is room for argument on these points, it can hardly be denied that Major de Seversky is right in concluding that air power was the decisive factor in Europe. Bombers and fighters did not win the war unaided, but they made possible the invasion that broke down German resistance. So the concept of strategic air warfare that his book helped to formulate has been proved valid.

Major de Seversky puts his finger on the reason why this concept eluded the Germans. The Nazi dictatorship "froze" enemy thinking, he says, while in this country final authority is in the hands of civilians and that is "a guarantee against the perpetuation of military prejudice." That is to say that freedom fights for freedom.

That is a great lesson—perhaps the greatest the war has taught.

Defeated Candidates

Former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic presidential candidate in 1920, has declined to be a senator. The appointment of Senator Harold H. Burton to the Supreme Court has created a vacancy which the governor of Ohio sought to fill by appointing Cox.

While Cox's age, 75, may have had something to do with his refusal, the fact is that few presidential candidates seem to figure in politics after their defeat. Some, like Al Smith and Willkie, strive after a second presidential nomination. In earlier days ex-candidates often served as secretary of state, like Bryan and Hughes. But for most it is the presidency or nothing. While Governor Dewey is expected to run for election as governor of New York in 1946, his aim apparently is to keep in line for the presidency. The appeal of the governorship in itself seems to be secondary.

It is a pity that presidential candidates do not figure more in high office after defeat. A man well enough esteemed by a major party to become its presidential nominee should have something valuable to offer to the nation.

Taxes That Need Freezing

Secretary Vinson has done well to ask Congress to freeze social security taxes at present levels to prevent their automatic increase on January 1.

President Truman has properly urged extension of the social security system to include millions of persons now denied its benefits. Since such action would increase proportionately the aggregate of contributions to the fund, it should not necessitate an increase of the taxes unless the individual benefits are also expanded.

But as matters stand, the two per cent social security tax, divided between employer and employe, is due to be more than doubled. On three occasions Senator Vandenberg has successfully shown the absence of any need for such a step-up in view of the rapidly increasing social security fund. Unless there is a radical change in the situation, Congress should again freeze these taxes at the existing level.

What People Say

WASHINGTON—President Truman opens the national war fund drive: "We have won the victory of arms, now let us push on to greater conquests—to the final victory of human justice and decency and faith in mankind."

LONDON—Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery: "It is not my plan to pamper the Germans. They brought this disaster on themselves and must face the consequences. . . But I am not prepared to see widespread famine and disease sweep through Europe. We must do what we can to prevent it."

SAN FRANCISCO—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz: "The atomic bomb will change the character of warfare but we must have control of the seas. We have it now, let us keep it. The navy of today is the guarantee of peace tomorrow."

CHICAGO—Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher: "To win the peace and to keep the peace the only safeguard lies in adequate preparations and the maintenance of our armed might at a high level."

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Need In Liberated Europe Is Baffling

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Members of congress who are for aid to liberated countries with a qualifying "but . . ." make obvious how difficult it will be to get any program finally adopted.

Many of the qualifiers are Liberals with an international point of view. They find it hard, however, to see through the confusion and conflict left over from the war.

The doubts and uncertainties they express may be the cause finally of stalemate. In spite of all the good will that exists, caution and timidity may paralyze action.

The need in liberated Europe calls for boldness and courage beyond anything thus far shown by anyone. The same kind of boldness we displayed in staking two billion dollars on the gamble of the atomic bomb might do it, but it will take almost that.

No Limit To Aid

The breakdown and the misery are on such a vast scale. You can see no limits to what we may be called on to do. Several congressmen say just that—they want to get an overall picture of needs before they make any commitment.

"We must find out what everybody wants before giving anything to anybody," says Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. "When you respond to one request, you provide a yardstick for all the others. And there is a definite limit to our own resources."

From another influential senate Republican, Owen Brewster of Maine, comes a similar reply. He says my question—do you favor aid for relief and rehabilitation in Europe and Asia even though it may mean continuance of some wartime restrictions here?—Is too much like, "have you stopped beating your wife?"

"I believe," says Brewster, "the American people are entitled to a much more complete and trustworthy account of conditions and supplies and requirements at home and abroad before they can intelligently answer your question."

Express Doubts

Most of those who qualify their approval indicate they would vote for commitments for immediate relief made under UNRRA or a similar organization. Even here, however, they express doubts. They seem to want to be reassured about the efficiency of UNRRA's operation.

Representative Charles M. LaFollette of Indiana, one of the most Liberal Americans in the house, says that he is "bitterly disappointed over the operation of UNRRA to date." At one time an "enthusiastic supporter of the idea," LaFollette says he has read and heard disturbing reports of aid being given or withheld depending on the victim's race or political beliefs.

Other members of congress express the same concern over the possibility of political administration of the aid distributed by UNRRA. The directors of UNRRA must be prepared to resolve these doubts when the congress is asked to appropriate $550,000,000 already authorized and to authorize another $1,350,000,000 which the U. S. delegation agreed to at the recent UNRRA meeting in London.

Fear Russian Domination

What this really reflects is a fear of Russian domination of UNRRA in Eastern Europe for political ends. And beneath this is a growing distrust of the Soviets and their intentions in the world. Two months ago, in my opinion, this feeling was largely limited to professional Soviet-haters.

That is not true today. Almost everything that happens feeds the distrust. The blank wall of failure reached by the council of foreign ministers—That unhappy wailing wall at which each day the lamentations and recriminations seem to grow louder—has strengthened the feeling of distrust and suspicion on Capitol Hill.

When it comes to something beyond immediate relief, such as rehabilitation and long term loans, the attitude of congressmen qualifying their approval of foreign aid is sterner. Many senators and representatives express the conviction that America must be sure to get something in return for long term assistance, either in liberalization of trade or in the retention of certain of our airways construction in various parts of the world.

Bolder Approach

Plainly, what is called for is a larger and bolder approach. Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut writes: "The problem of rehabilitation of Europe and Asia should be analyzed as a whole by one agency of the administration, which should have as its agents or informants all other branches of the government working today on the rehabilitation of foreign countries: The FEA, UNRRA, the export-import bank and so on. This analysis should be presented as a whole to the congress and the people so that they may know how much of such a program they are willing to underwrite as taxpayers over a limited period of years, either as charity, risk or investment, and how much of their own comforts they are willing to sacrifice to achieve it."

Both from the American point of view and the point of view of hungry Europe, the piecemeal approach is likely to have the most unhappy consequences. The chances of failure, in any event, are great. Just possibly a bold, imaginative stroke might carry the day.

RESTAURANT ETIQUETTE

"What are your views on the following questions of restaurant etiquette: (1) Does the lady inform the gentleman of her choice after consulting her menu

(2) Does the gentleman contact the waiter and give him both orders, mentioning hers first, or does each give his or her own to the waiter?

(3) Should the lady require any extra service should she beckon the waiter or make her desires known to her escort who, in turn, sees that her wishes are complied with?

(4) Should the gentleman hold the lady's chair before going to his place?

Answer: (1 and 2) She may give her order to her escort, who will then give both orders to the waiter thus: "The lady will have so-and-so and I will have so-and-so," or she may give it to the waiter herself. It really does not matter.

(3) She should make her desires known to her companion who will call the waiter and see that they are complied with.

(4) If there is a headwaiter or a captain present, he will lead the way to the table, the lady following him and the gentleman following her. The headwaiter or captain will hold her chair and her escort will proceed to his. If there is no headwaiter present, the man should lead the way, the woman following him. If there is no waiter or other attendant present, the man should hold the woman's chair and wait until she is seated before seating himself. She should precede him as they leave the table for the exit.

Retrenching In Revenue Only

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4

DURING the war the tremendous increase in civilians on the Federal pay roll was inevitable. There were many thousands of useless employes, but the war made any fight against waste futile. Therefore, though when the total went beyond the three-million mark many persons were disturbed, nothing could be done about it.

THOSE WHO believe that a government swollen to such vast proportions is not only an intolerable burden upon the taxpayers but a menace to our system, in that it makes even reasonable competency impossible and gives to the existing Administration an unwholesome political power, were sustained by the hope that once the war was over retrenchment would be the order of the day and this gigantic Federal bureaucracy be reduced to reasonable size. However, that hope remains unnourished and unfulfilled. As Senator Byrd recently pointed out, 90 days after the German collapse, instead of the Federal pay roll shrinking it had increased. In those three months some 15,000 more civilians had gone on. Since Japan surrendered there have been some war agencies "liquidated," but examination shows that the liquidation was slightly phony and that thousands of the jobholders in the "liquidated" agencies had, in fact, merely been transferred to other departments.

FOR example, the remnant of the Office of War Information has gone over to the State Department. In addition, the State Department also has taken over the personnel of the Office of Strategic Services, presumably with the view of strengthening its intelligence division. This is contrary to the recommendation of Maj. Gen. W. J. Donovan, former head of the OSS, who had urged the President to establish a single, co-ordinated American intelligence service under an independent head. But it keeps a considerable number of the OSS people on the pay roll.

UNFORTUNATELY for the level of competency in the State Department, the personnel from both OWI and OSS thus taken over is by no means the best, or even the average, of these agencies. The best began to get out right after the German surrender and the next best have followed into private fields with the "liquidation." Obviously, those who remained and who are now on the State Department pay roll are largely composed of men who had no other place to go. The same thing is true of other "liquidations"—that of the Office of Economic Stabilization, transferred to the Federal Loan Administration; of the War Labor Board, transferred to the Secretary of Labor, and of the Foreign Economic Administration, split between State, Commerce and Agriculture departments.

IN BRIEF none of these "liquidations" are complete. In every case a large proportion of the personnel has simply been transferred from one pay roll to another. But even more discouraging is the tendency to expand evidenced by department after department. The largest is in the State Department, which has absorbed a number of totally incongruous agencies. But expansion on a large scale is planned by both the Commerce and Labor departments. For the former, Mr. Henry Wallace has burst forth with an elaborate reorganization scheme which concededly means many more men, much more money and quite a lot more power for Mr. Wallace. Mr. Schwellenbach has similar, though not quite so ambitious, ideas. Neither has any notion of dropping useless employes, not conceding for a minute that there is such a thing. Neither has any idea of reducing his department in size or cost. On the contrary, both their hearts seem set on expansion. The worst of it is that the President appears to approve, which means that the only hope lies in Congress. Possibly Congress may become economy-minded and not only refuse any reorganization that adds to the cost and cumbersomeness of government but insist upon reductions all along the line. This it could do very easily by the simple expedient of refusing appropriations.

AT ANY rate, a fight to that end will be made but at the moment the sentiment for reduction in Congress seems about as lukewarm as it is in the White House. The only reduction for which there is enthusiasm is a reduction in revenue. In Congress and in the Treasury the question is not whether to cut taxes but how much. Secretary of the Treasury Vinson proposes a $5,000,000,000 cut. The House Republicans want even more than that. The bill is to be rushed through by November 1. Every bracket is to get some reduction. It is hard to see how we are to recover our financial equilibrium that way. Here is a nation with a $300,000,000,000 debt, facing an annual budget of $25,000,000,000, expanding in all directions, about to make great foreign loans, planning to spend new billions on public works, veteran compensation, etc.—retrenching in one direction only—revenue. It seems crazy—and it is. How long would a big corporation, a small business or an individual last under that program?

General Arnold Has Big Headache Now
Has Great Number Of Airplanes To Sell
High Schools May Get Big Bombers Cheap

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—The commanding general of the Army Air forces, Henry H. Arnold, has a problem he would like to talk over with the country.

It is a problem so thick it may lose the general that name "Hap" (for "Happy") Arnold. For how any man, even so popular a fellow as the general, can toss off the proposition he faces without growing grim and gaunt is a riddle to baffle the sphinx.

The problem—the disposal of 80,000 airplanes by next June! Eighty thousand shiny, fit airplanes must be got rid of within eight months!

What! You say, "get rid" of 80,000 airplanes! Why do that? Silly, don't you know the war is over. And when the war is over, nobody wants anything connected with war. (Not until the next war.) So the powers that be (you find out who they are) say: Do something with those planes. Nobody needs them now. They are fighting planes. Dump them in the ocean. Blow them up. Dig a hole and bury them. Do anything so you get rid of them, quick. The war is over, we tell you!"

Nobody Wants Them

No wonder General Arnold has begun to brood about the job that is backing up on him. He fought and bled and almost died to get those planes. They cost the taxpayer a pretty penny, too. And now nobody wants them.

"The most planes I can dispose of by what you might call normal methods is 10,000. That leaves me with 70,000!" General Arnold told me.

Seventy thousand planes. I keep muttering on my typewriter. Seventy thousand planes to be destroyed!

"But they don't have to be destroyed beyond all usefulness," said the general in our informal conversation. "I've a plan for their disposal I'd like to get over to the public. You'll help me? Splendid!

"Well, my plan is something like this: Pig those planes! Let me use a wide, open space out in Utah or Nevada. Let me dump those planes in big furnaces and melt them down. 'Pig them' is the word. Once they're melted down, they're no longer useful as planes. But the material of which they are made is salvaged. How? It's very simple.

"We'd just pile up the 'pigs' in a big heap or in several big heaps and leave them there until the time came to use some of the metal again. For other planes, for automobiles, vacuum cleaners—for anything!"

Pigging the planes would not eliminate them forever. But dropping them in the deepest part of the ocean and forgetting them, would eliminate them.

Schools To Get Planes

I asked General Arnold why he was uneasy about his chance of "pigging" the planes. He explained that the "pigging" would cost a little money. You'd have to have labor for the cutting up and melting down. Congress might not understand why more money needed be appropriated now. To him such an appropriation would be economy and a saving of natural resources. Certainly we have no right to waste ore we dug out of the mines for those planes.

As a layman, I completely agree with the wisdom of the general's plan. I told him I'd help get the idea over. I hope I have.

Of those 10,000 planes General Arnold says he can dispose of, several thousand will go to the nation's high schools. It is General Arnold's wish that each high school able to raise $300 be given a B-29. With this superb machine, high school children may learn to fly. May develop useful inventions for further conquest of the air.

Giving surplus planes away to foreign governments who come a-begging is not so simple a method of "getting rid" of them as some people think. No war materials can be given to foreign nations without consent of Congress.

The World and the Mud Puddles

MORE ABSURDITIES

The essence of the so-called full employment bill is in the declaration that it is the obligation of the government of the United States to provide a job for every citizen able and willing to work. There is nothing in the Constitution, of course, to warrant this governmental responsibility; it is merely a conception of the Wallaceites and kindred groups of collectivists and Communists. Assuming, however, that it has even sentimental validity, the question that cannot be evaded is this: What kind of job, at what wages, is the government of

Words Of Wisdom

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Recently one of the metropolitan newspapers made quite a splurge over the appalling increase in juvenile crime figures.

Somehow I couldn't get terribly excited over these figures in spite of the fact that my wife accused me of being somewhat hardboiled. It was simply that I had seen figures like that before—after the last war—and that those figures eventually got right back to normal when people settled down to their everyday kind of lives again.

You see, and I have told you the same thing before, as far as I am concerned there is no such thing as juvenile delinquency. That term means only an effect. The cause is adult delinquency. When I see those figures of juvenile crimes of commission, I realize that they are caused by adult crimes of omission.

There has been a war with all its upsets and abnormalities. There have been broken-up homes and separations of men and wives, nightwork, too much money, artificial hilarity to obliterate grief—all the fever and fast pulse which that most terrible of all social diseases, WAR, brings with it.

Children were left alone. They were sent out to work in factories and stores. Dance halls and dives were open to them. There was a terrific shortage of men and Nature, not the Police Department, has made it a law that women want men—and vice versa.

Every day was a 24-hour day. There was glamour such as most of our kids had never seen—the real glamour of uniforms, the false glitter of night clubs, of drinking, of vice, of abandonment.

Nobody was there to tell the kids what was right and what was wrong. Fathers were away—and mothers, too.

So lots of kids went wrong. Some of them beyond redemption—but remember that many fathers died beyond redemption and many sons were crippled beyond redemption.

It's bad that it happened. But it was WAR. Those juvenile delinquents, as you call them, are war victims as much as the war victims who sleep under white crosses all over the world.

Only the kids weren't victims of bullets and bombs but of ignorance—not theirs, but yours and mine, because we didn't have sense enough, first to prevent war and second to teach them right.

Remember this: No child spoils itself.

Don't ever call your boy or your girl a spoiled brat.

If it's a brat, you made it one. If it's spoiled, you spoiled it.

But I don't think there is too much to worry about. The war's over, our temperature is going back to normal.

The patient is convalescing and all the symptoms of his sickness will soon disappear.

And juvenile delinquency will be one of them.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENTAL CONTROL

One day a father told a four year old boy to close the door. "I won't!" the child replied. "You will!" retorted Dad who gave the youngster a sound spanking. "I won't!" the boy sobbed again, and again he was spanked. But after the father had spanked that little tyke so long and hard that he felt he was being brutal, the baby still refused.

Then in desperation, Dad took him to the door, held the little fellow's hand, put it to the knob and the door was closed. But the baby didn't close that door.

Obey Command

No, he didn't nor would he have closed that door, perhaps, however long the spanking had continued. It is possible though not certain that this baby will obey a like command next time. Even if he does, we are not sure that the loss will not be greater than the gain.

We wish the father had not commanded the child in the first place. A quiet request might have brought immediate cooperation and builded for further cooperation. Then if the child had not complied there would have been no occasion for the punishment, since it was a request. Does not an honest request imply that the child shall feel to choose.

Possible Gain

If he had not chosen to close the door, the father could have closed it himself and lost nothing, rather he would have gained, perhaps. But once the command was uttered, punishment had to follow disobedience. But the father still had a better way out after he had commanded. He could have told the child that either he must close the door or get a spanking.

Then, no matter whether the lad closed the door or not the father's word would have been made good and the good effect registered for the future. Also with older children, it is far wiser to offer the alternative so the child either obeys or gets punished than to try to punish till he obeys. Some children have so good stuff of independence in them that they just won't surrender. Then see what ignominy faces the punisher!

Arthur Gaeth Speaks Here On Postwar Period

B'nai B'rith Organization Sponsors Well-Known News Correspondent At Meeting

"Give the European countries a smattering of democracy, a will to rebuild themselves with no domination of aristocracy—and in this manner only can the future of Europe be assured."

So said Arthur Gaeth, when he addressed a large audience at the B'nai B'rith open meeting, at Temple Israel, Wednesday evening.

Mr. Gaeth, a well-informed radio commentator and news correspondent, gave a clear and concise picture of the unstable picture now present in the European countries.

"Europe today is a devasted continent torn by war and in poverty. With such elements present, the people of Europe will grasp any form of government, which will assist them in their dire predicament. We, as the United States can help them to rebuild; to build a sound basis and government; we can avert future wars, by coming to their help and assist in their needs and reassurement."

Balkans Problems

"The problems of the Balkans lie in the lack of organization, stability and sound governments. Germany has become indifferent; France's problems lie in her economic and political structure. These numerous problems can be solved when the affected country gets a treaty of peace, and receives the right to solve and settle their internal affairs. The British Empire is under tremendous pressure, and this fact alone will not cause her to undergo any changes."

"Russia has come out of this war a mature nation, and will play a definite part in the post-war period, and a major role in the world. The United States is the only country who is Russia's competitor. Russia today is the only country that can negotiate on an equal basis, with the United States, and for this reason, both countries will be decided factors in the post-war period."

Mr. Gaeth touched briefly upon the Palestine problem, stating that the anti-semitic feeling still exists, but is on its way out. The British opposition in permittting the European Jewish refugees enter Palestine, will be swept aside. This can be done only through public opinion and pressure. However, in approximately five or six years, the Palestine problem will be solved, and ample room for the refugees will be found, so that they will be able to live adequately and comfortably in Palestine."

Mr. Gaeth concluded with the statement that "not a too pessimistic attitude must be taken towards Europe. The people have paid a high price, and in getting the future they want—will probably pay a still higher price. With intelligent selection of the leaders of a country, good leadership will be had, and thus a better state of affairs will be realized in the world today."

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Gaeth answered questions asked by those in the audience. Mr. Gaeth has lived in Europe for ten years, and has lectured extensively. He is not only qualified to speak on the European affairs, but he presented the news of today in an understanding manner, against the background of a global war.

Edward Haimes, vice-president of B'nai B'rith, extended welcome, and introduced the program chairman, Philip Weiner, who introduced the speaker of the evening.

Defense Council Will Dispose Of War Equipment

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The State Defense Council was expected today by Gov. Edward Martin to complete the disposition of $18,000,000 worth of federal equipment by the end of October.

"It will probably take the balance of this month to get it all adjusted," he said. "There was about $18,000,000 worth but some of it is being turned over to local communities and a lot of it is being sent back to the federal government."

The last of the council's activities, salvage and child care centers were inactivated September 30.

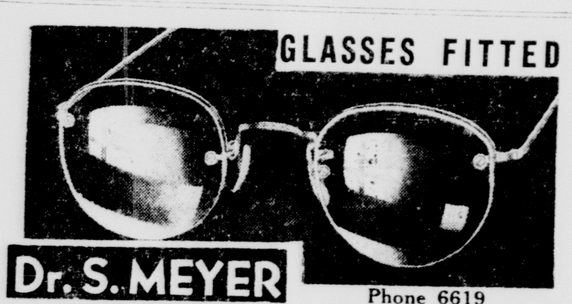

Highway Department Prepares For Snow

In keeping with the Highway Department's schedule of the year's activity, the local highway force is carrying out the fall program of stocking cinders, and preparing equipment for winter snow removal.

Snow fences will be erected after the first of November, or, in some instances, shortly before.

The largest tonnage increase in blast furnace capacity during the war took place in the Chicago area.

the United States supposed to guarantee?

As this is written, there are approximately two million workers idle in the United States—voluntarily idle, on strike. The demands of these workers, as exemplified in the oil workers and the CIO automobile workers, are for a thirty i cent increase in wages. It is not the purpose of this article to discuss the justice or injustice of this demand. The point involved in this discussion is simple:

Does the enactment of the full employment act place upon the United States government the obligation to provide jobs for every person able and willing to work at a thirty per cent increase over prevailing wages? In case the government is unable to do this, by reason of the fact that private industry cannot or will not continue to operate on such a wage scale, is it then the duty of the United States government, as proclaimed in the full employment bill, to furnish jobs for these workers at the wage scale which private industry cannot or will not pay?

If the expressions and implications of organized labor are to be taken as representative, this is exactly what the full employment bill means. There are no restrictions on wages or definitions of "jobs" in this bill to preclude the interpretation that workers who cannot get jobs at their own prices and on their own terms can fall back on the government of the United States for jobs that will meet their demands. If automobile workers and oil workers, now demanding thirty per cent wage increases from private employers, cannot win their demands, it becomes the responsibility of the government, under the proposed full employment bill, to supply jobs at the wage scales demanded. Back of the proposal for twenty-five dollars a week for twenty-six weeks unemployment compensation was a similar thought—the idea that workers who cannot obtain jobs as profitable and desirable as in the war industries should be paid for a half-year period of loafing.

No reason can be invoked as to why the government of the United States—with the people paying the bills—should guarantee two million workers their jobs at thirty per cent wage increases, or as to why the government of the United States should support in idleness hundreds of thousands of workers who are unwilling to accept jobs at less wages than those which prevailed in the booming war industries.

The fallacy of a government "guarantee" of jobs, with some two million deliberately idle and threatening to make two or three million more idle, must be apparent to everyone competent to think. The similar fallacy of government bounties to those who refuse to work at less desirable jobs than those enjoyed during the war boom must likewise be obvious.

The whole measure is an economic monstrosity and an affront to the intelligence of a fifth grade school boy. It is purely political—and its implications are wholly communistic.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

when a tot deliberately throws something in rage and you command him to pick it up. He might never pick it up although you were to beat him almost to death. On the other hand a relatively small amount of pain inflicted on the child instantly after he threw the object might keep him from throwing things in like fashion in the future. Even then, no kind of punishment might be the most desirable, in the face of overpowering rage.

Suppose a fourteen year old boy in a fit of anger tossed a book across the room. It would be almost fatal to command him then and there to pick it up, since he almost surely wouldn't. A wiser way with him would be to do nothing, say nothing.

Then, after several hours when you and he were wholly calm and reasonable you might be able in a lovely fashion to lead him to see how foolish his conduct was and how it would be to his advantage to learn to control himself better next time.

Hunt Fugitive From Farview

FARVIEW, Pa., Oct. 4.—(INS)—Peter Revty, 20, Pittsburgh confessed robber and army deserter, was the object of a state-wide search today following his escape from the state hospital for criminal insane at Farview.

Revty began a 29½ to 39-year sentence in January after he pleaded guilty to shooting State Trooper Charles Pentz and to robbery. Pentz recovered.

Enroute to western penitentiary with two other prisoners last January, Revty and his fellow convicts tried unsuccessfully to overpower their guards.

New Castle Man Held For Hearing

Charged With Involuntary Manslaughter As Result Of Fatal Auto Accident

(Special to The News)

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 4.—Dewey G. Foster, aged 47 years, of 412 Martin street, New Castle, was arrested on a charge of involuntary manslaughter Wednesday afternoon after a coroner's jury at Sharon found him "criminally negligent" in the automobile collision at Hermitage, near Sharon, on September 1, which caused the death of Thomas J. Weaver Jr., 40, of R. D. 4, Mercer.

Weaver died on September 19, at his home from a coronary occlusion several days after being discharged from Buhl hospital, where he was under treatment from injuries suffered in the accident.

Martin Bright, of near Fredonia, testified that he (Bright) was standing at a gas station at Hermitage, talking to Arthur Orr, facing the intersection, when he saw Foster drive through the stop sign at a fast rate of speed. The car then struck the auto driven by Weaver.

Others to testify were: Foster; Orr; Raymond Redfoot, R. D. 1, Clark's Mills, a passenger in Weaver's car; and State Trooper Clifford Yolmer.

State police from Mercer sub-station immediately placed Foster under arrest on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Foster submitted $1,000 cash bail for a preliminary hearing to be held Monday at 4 p. m., before Justice of the Peace, Thomas McClain, of Mercer.

School In Mercer County Damaged By Fire Outbreak

MERCER, Oct. 4.—The 23 pupils attending Stokely school on the Mercer-Jackson Center road received an unexpected holiday following a fire in the building after school closed Tuesday.

The flames were discovered about 3:45 by Patrick D'Angio, school bus driver, who called the east end fire department of Mercer which extinguished the blaze.

The directors recently installed a new furnace type stove and the fire is beleived to have started from a defect in it or from overheating. The walls and floor around the stove were badly burned, a window was broken and the freshly painted interior was blistered and blackened.

Damage was estimated by Fire Chief W. W. Amon at approximately $500, but books and other school supplies were saved and will be used in an emergency room as soon as the board is able to make arrangements during the repair period.

Mrs. M. M. Eller of Mercer is the teacher.

The Christian Way of Life

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The good Samaritan.

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."—Luke 10:27.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for October 7, is Matt. 22:36-39, Mark 12:28-34, Luke 10:25-37, the Memory Verse being Luke 10:27, "Thou shalt love the Lord they God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all they strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.")

The general subject of the next quarter of study is "The Christian and His Relationships," a most timely subject for a world that is struggling to make a just and lasting peace. "The Christian Way of Life" is the first lesson in the series for this week, and Jesus, our Master, tells us in very plain words just what that way should be.

The first two references to Matthew 22:36-39, and Mark 12:28-34 are apparently the two apostles' versions of the same event. A lawyer or scribe was the questioner of our Lord. Scribes were authorized copyists of the law, and minutely acquainted with the text thereof. They were much looked up to, and seem to have been half lawyers and half theologians. Prof. Lenski says that even though Matthew states the lawyer was "tempting" Jesus, it is not to be interpreted as meaning anything with evil intent. He was merely trying to see how Jesus would answer a disputed question.

Jesus had just silenced some Sadducees with his wise answers, when this lawyer asked him, "Master, which is the great commandment in the law?"

At once Jesus answered, as He ever did when questions were put to Him, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind."

"This is the first and great commandment.

"And the second is like unto it. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

"On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets."

Again in Mark 12:28-34 Jesus answers as before, beginning, however, with, "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord."

Scribe Admits Truth

"And the scribe said, unto Him, Well, Master, Thou hast said the truth: for there is one God; and there is none other but He:

"And to love Him with all the heart, and with all the understanding, and with all the soul, and with all the strength, and to love his neighbor as himself, is more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices."

When Jesus saw how discreetly this man answered, He said to him, "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God."

Another lawyer questioned Jesus, according to St. Luke, who is the only one to recount the story with the parable of the Good Samaritan which followed. This lawyer asked Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?"

Jesus asked in return, "What is the written law? how readest thou?" The lawyer answered, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

"Thou hast answered right," said Jesus. "This do, and thou shalt live."

The man, "desiring to justify himself," said to Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?"

Jesus Tells Parable

"A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead." A priest passed that way, and when he saw the wounded man he passed by on the other side. Likewise a Levi looked at him and passed by.

"But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him.

"And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

"And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again I will repay thee."

Now, said Jesus, "Which of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbor unto him that fell among thieves?"

"And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise."

Should we not keep these words in our hearts, and in all our dealings with our fellow men, remember and put them into practice in the name of the Gentle Jesus and Saviour of mankind?

Students To Start Practice Teaching

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 4—Practice teaching in high schools for the next six weeks will begin Monday for three senior women students at Westminster college, Prof. Carroll Leeds, director of student teaching, has announced.

They include Mary Emma Gray of Bellevue and Meredith Laudenslager of Weatherly, who will teach commercial subjects and English, respectively, at Sharon high school, and Kathryn Wege of Washington, Pa., who will teach commercial subjects at Trinity high school near Washington.

First grader or senior, you're proud of that youngster huddled over his school books. Those night sessions with the problems of readin', writin' and 'rithmetic are the tough, narrow pathways to America's future. You want to help. You can't do the work for him or her. Of course, you lend advice. Mostly you just "sweat it out" and await eagerly for the report card.

There's one thing you can do that will be loads of help. Give special attention to lighting. Try this experiment. Read a page from a book in daylight. Read that same page under artificial light. You'll see it takes a lot of light to make reading easy—free from strain. Make study light as near to daylight as possible.

- Use enough light. Have your child study under no less than a 100 watt bulb. Place the lamp near enough to the work to let intense rays light-up the printing. Locate the lamp so sight-seeing beams won't be interrupted and cause shadows.

- See that glare is eliminated. Every bulb should be shaded. A diffusing bowl distributes and gives quality to light. White-lined shades that flare at the bottom are efficient and make lighting good.

- Clean bulbs and fixtures. Dust and dirt absorb light rays. Dust covered bulbs can't produce light at their best efficiency. Dirty shades prevent reflection of light to the desire area. It's easy and little trouble to make light right for better sight.

STATE LEGION LEADERS HEARD

District Commander Conn Heads Local Delegation Attending Beaver County Banquet

District Commander A. Lewis Conn, and Commander-elect Leon A. Drumm, of the Perry S. Gaston Post, headed a delegation from the local post, which attended the Beaver County Committee's 23rd Annual banquet, in New Brighton, Wednesday evening, when Department Commander James P. Murray and Western Vice Commander John Stoup, of Waynesburg spoke.

Commander Murray outlined a militant policy for rehabilitation work for widows and orphans, adequate hospital facilities for the care of veterans, commensurate with the number of men who served in the World wars, the establishment of a policy committee for the Pennsylvania Legion, and a public relations department which will function to let the public know what the Legion is doing in Pennsylvania.

He took exception to the remarks of General Bradley, head of the Veterans Administration, that too many veterans were filing claims with the Veterans Bureau, holding that every veteran has a right to file a claim, and that the matter of deciding whether a veteran is compensable for disability lays with the Adjudication board, and not with the general.

He urged the posts to develop activities for the younger men and women coming in from the late war. Western Vice Commander Stoup's remarks were also pertinent.

It was the first appearance in this district, of the new department officers, and they will be heard here in the near future, at a county committee meeting.

Nine members of the Gaston post attended the banquet, which was limited to representatives of all the posts in the district. District Commander Conn introduced Commander Murray.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Governor Bricker Urges Truman To Remove Handicaps

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 4.—Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio last night called on the Truman administration "to generate some native American spunk" and promptly strip of power the boards and agencies in Washington "which control, regulate and hamper business and industry."

Addressing a Westmoreland County Republican committee rally at the Greensburg High school auditorium, the GOP's 1944 candidate for vice president declared:

"There cannot be sufficient jobs for returning war veterans and war workers who are idle unless the wheels of business and industry operate at their best. And they cannot operate that way unless there is a flow of capital into industrial and trade channels."

Jap Silk Business Gone, Expert Says

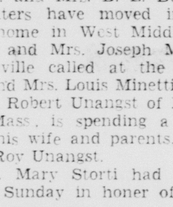

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Japan's No. 1 export business, the silk industry, has been "outmoded" by nylon and rayon, making it doubtful if Japan will ever again figure largely in world trade, Hyram T. Nones, a department of commerce economist and an expert on silk, said today.

Even if the Japanese can rebuild their war-battered silk industry, Mr. Nones said, most of their U. S. market will be gone. Most silk authorities estimated that Japan could not regain more than 20 per cent of her pre-war U. S. market. Mr. Nones' own estimate is 10 per cent.

During the early part of the 19th century, incredible numbers of pigeons were wont to roost at night and nestle in certain breeding places in the forests of the Mississippi valley. One hundred or more nests were often seen in a single tree.

Penal Construction Program In State Moving Forward

New $3,000,000 Reformatory At Rockview In Centre County Is Projected In Plan

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's $8,000,000 postwar penal construction program moved another step forward today after state officials approved seven projects including a new $3,000,000 reformatory at Rockview in Centre county.

Secretary of Property and Supplies C. M. Woolworth explained that the projects must be approved by a five-member investigating committee named last year by Gov. Edward Martin.

There were indications that construction may begin in the spring.

Woolworth, following a conference with Welfare Secretary S. M. R. O'Hara, Budget Secretary Edward B. Logan and the penal committee, said the approved projects included a $2,500,000 "maximum security" prison at Graterford and a $1,500,000 defective delinquent institution at Rockview.

Woolworth explained that about four months would be required to prepare blueprints for the construction work. Warden Stanley P. Ashe, of the Western State penitentiary, heads the penal committee named by Governor Martin.

Harry Barkby Talks On Pottery

Kiwanis Head Tells Fellow Club Members How Shenango Pottery Makes Wares

Pinch-hitting for Judge W. Walter Braham, who was called to Butler on court duty, and who was to have addressed the New Castle Kiwanis club at their noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton, President Harry Barkby did a splendid job, giving an illustrated talk on the making of pottery as done at the great Shenango Pottery company plant here.

Mr. Barkby, who is a designer for the Pottery company, told the Kiwanians how pottery is made, and then conducted them on a tour of the plant, via the picture route, which showed the various processes involved.

His talk was much enjoyed by the membership.

HARRISBURG — Three-year-old Vivian Frank was in a tight spot for more than 20 minutes. Police worked frantically to free the screaming tot from the cast iron pipe in which her foot was wedged.

Although her car was totally wrecked, Miss Mary Melfi of Wampum escaped serious injury when the car skidded on a wet road near Clinton and turned over as she was returning from Beaver Falls.

Trapped in the car and afraid of the car catching fire, Miss Melfi crawled through a window and escaped with a few scratches and slight bruises. She was picked up and taken home by a fellow worker at B. and W. in Beaver Falls.

Governor Approves Action On Voting

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Gov. Edward Martin today approved action taken by Pennsylvania's County Commissioners to enable unregistered discharged veterans to vote in the general election November 6.

Governor Martin termed the move "good local government."

Children's Play Series To Start Friday Evening

First Play Of Pittsburgh Children's Theater Will Be 'Captain Kidd's Treasure'

Indications are that children of New Castle and vicinity are looking forward with keen anticipation to the first of the Pittsburgh Children's Theater plays, "Captain Kidd's Treasure," to be staged Friday evening at 7:30 in the senior high school auditorium.

This is the second year that the Federation Junior club has sponsored a series of entertainments for children by the Pittsburgh Children's Theater under the direction of Grace Price, a series that last year aroused much interest and has met with an enthusiastic advance response again this season.

"Captain Kidd's Treasure" will be one of three plays for children in a series of four entertainments to be given during the fall and spring.

The fourth is an attraction added to the series this year, a ballet, "Christopher Columbus" by the well-known Strawbridge Ballet.

All members of the Federation Junior club have been working as a committee on the play series project and the Junior Woman's club has cooperated.

Among those actively engaged on the Federation Junior patron and ticket committees are Miss Kathryn Boston, Miss Reba Sines, Miss Margaret Brown, Mrs. Richard Marquis, Mrs. A. J. Brinko, Mrs. William Y. Gibson, Miss Dorothy Long, Miss Isabel Johnson, Mrs. S. E. Wray, Miss Janet Brenneman, Mrs. Frank W. Daugherty, Mrs. Francis J. Baldauf, and Mrs. Alfred H. Owens.

Lawrence County Farm, Home News

By Extension Representatives, LEWIS C. DAYTON, Agriculture; MISS MARY ELLEN McCLAIN, Home Economics.

AVOID ACCIDENTS WITH CORN PICKERS

Because corn pickers cause a large percentage of all farm accidents, Lawrence county farmers using mechanical corn pickers are cautioned to exercise unusual care in their operation.

Corn pickers cause 10 per cent of all farm accidents in Pennsylvania. During the last three months of the year they may cause one-fifth to one-third of all farm accidents for that period.

These accidents need not happen if corn pickers are properly handled. Manufacturers provide shields and other mechanical safeguards which are useless if left in the machine shed.

Many corn picker accidents have resulted in death, statistics show. In others, farmers have been maimed for life. Careless operation of corn pickers and tractors account for more farm accidents than any other two pieces of euipment.

Stop the machine before working around or near any moving part, and have the power take-off shield in place. Loose clothing adds another hazard to operating any type of power machinery.

Urge Reduction Of Real Estate Taxes In State

Seek To Assure State's High Industrial Standing In Post-War Period

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4—(INS)—A reduction of real estate taxes to assure Pennsylvania's high industrial standing was urged Wednesday by Albert A. Murrer of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania Real Estate association.

Murrer warned 300 delegates to the association's 25th annual convention at Harrisburg that maintenance of the "oppressive tax burden on the home owner" would discourage housing and new industries.

"Home owners are paying 79 per cent of the total cost of maintaining the school system in Pennsylvania," he stated. "In some Pennsylvania cities such as Pittsburgh, real estate taxpayers also pay as much as 89 per cent of local government costs."

E. M. Elkin, general tax counsel for the Westinghouse Electric corporation, told delegates last night that local, state and federal taxes must be reduced if sound economy was to be assured.

He called for revision of Pennsylvania's general tax structure to attract new industries to Pennsylvania and said the federal government would find it difficult to reduce taxes if expenditures were not curtailed.

Thousands Of Accused Japs To Face Trials Soon

MANILA, Oct. 4—(INS)—Sources close to allied military tribunals said today that trials of thousands of accused Jap war criminals will begin possibly within two weeks.

Defendants at the sensational hearings, which may take a year to complete, will be segregated into three groups.

1. Those charged with engineering the war and with the responsibility of furthering policies fostering war crimes. Included in this category are such Jap political leaders as "Pearl Harbor" Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo and others of this stripe.

2. Those who actually plotted military aggressions and others under whose orders atrocities were committed against allied prisoners of war. Typical of this classification is Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita.

3. Those who, by orders or on their own initiative, actually perpetrated the atrocities. This group, numerically the largest, is comprised of those whose hands wielded the weapons of bestiality.

Since Russia, China, Australia, New Zealand, Britain, Holland and America will be represented, witnesses and interpreters at the trials are expected to be numbered in the thousands.

Prosecutors are now being appointed and brief by Col. Alva Carpenter, Fort Wayne, Ind., attorney, whose job as judge advocate in the orient is considered more complicated than that of Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson's similar position in Europe.

Plenty Of Turkeys Reported In State

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4—Plenty of home-grown turkeys for Pennsylvania Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners is assured this year according to a report today by the State Department of Agriculture following an annual turkey population survey by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service which showed an all-time record total of 1,670,000 holiday dinner birds. There are no government set-asides and all birds except those held back for breeding purposes will be available to civilian consumers, department officials declared.

The 1945 Pennsylvania turkey production total is 385,000 birds or 30 percent ahead of 1944. This is the fourth straight year that the output has exceeded the million mark. The new record ranks Pennsylvania 8th among all turkey producing states, an advance from 9th last year.

Dairy Production Payment Drafts Should Be Cashed

Farmers in Lawrence county should make sure they haven't misplaced any dairy production payment drafts. If they find any such checks that haven't been cashed, Dorris L. Fulkman, chairman of the Agricultural Conservation committee, asks that the drafts be cashed promptly to help simplify the Commodity Credit corporation's bookkeeping.

Calling attention to the difficulty of keeping accurate records under such a nation-wide program, Mr. Fulkman said that a recent report showed that over 32,000 dairy drafts issued before November 1, 1944, were still outstanding on June 30, 1945. This means that some farmers have hidden somewhere—perhaps forgotten—thousands of dollars worth of ready money.

Almost 2 million farmers participated in the dairy program last year. It would seem profitable for anyone who has forgotten whether he cashed his last dairy production payment to do as Mr. Fulkman asks, and "take a look around."

PITTSBURGH—Internal Revenue Collector Stanley Granger has appealed to veterans to register pistomatic weapons brought home as war trophies in order to comply with the national firearms act of 1934.

Temperance Rally Here Next Sunday

The joint Adult, Administrative, and Temperance Conference and Rally to be held at the First Christian church this city, next Sunday afternoon October 7 at 2:30, will have for its speaker, Dr. R. F. Galbreath, president of Westminster College.

Sunday School superintendents are urged to send delegates, as timely matters of interest and problems will be discussed. The message of Dr. Galbreath will deal with the post-war problem of the returning service man. What can the adults of the Sunday Schools and churches of Lawrence County, do to welcome and be of service to them.

The Temperance discussion will deal largely with the statistics, facts, and dangers brought out at the 1945 Pennsylvania School of Alcohol Studies held at Juniata College last summer. Dr. George F. Dunkelberger, president of Susquehanna College, who was director of the school, has furnished mimeographed copies of the lectures to those who attended the school from Lawrence County. A sheet of Questions and Answers based on these lectures, have been mailed to the pastors, Sunday School Superintendents, County and District Officers, to facilitate the discussion.

Sends Many Jap Souvenirs Home

That old gag about bringing a Jap back from the wars won't be exactly true when Pfc. Lloyd J. Moore, of the Old Plank Road returns, but he will have almost everything but that in the form of souvenirs.

Pfc. Moore, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kaiser has sent to his wife a box of souvenirs which it seems he got from a Japanese colonel who won't need them any more. Up in the hills of Luzon, Pfc. Moore's outfit, the 112th Cavalry, was engaged in a close quarter combat with a bunch of Japs and from information pieced together it appears that Moore and the Jap colonel came to grips. The Jap colonel lost.

Included in the box of souvenirs is an unusual Japanese medal set with a handsome ruby which the late colonel unfortunately prized. There is a lot of Jap money, Jap flags, a whistle, a compass, a bugle, one Jap medal, and a host of other interesting articles which are now safe in Neshannock township.

Reynolds Land Award Appealed

War Department Disputes Finding Of Viewers For Frkonja Farm

GREENVILLE, Oct. 4.—The U. S. government, on behalf of the war department, has appealed the recent award by viewers to Joseph and Mildred Frkonja for land commandeered by the war department for the site of Camp Shenango, later Camp Reynolds. Word to this effect was received today by Guy Thorne, attorney for the Frkonjas.

Of the 2419 acres bought outright or condemned for the personnel replacement depot, no agreement as to price was reached as to the more than 300 acres owned by Frkonja and wife, who declined to accept the award of $9,830. Eventually the Federal court appointed viewers and they, after inspecting the property, raised the amount $1,800, or to $11,630. From this award the government has now appealed.

The Frkonja land was a part of the additional 932 acres taken over by the war department to enlarge the camp site, for rifle range and other purposes.

Egg Ceiling Prices Apply To Farmers, Price Board States

Farmers are just as much under the jurisdiction of ceiling prices as other individuals who sell eggs wholesale or retail, according to a statement made by the local Price Panel this morning.

The statement was made in connection with a case brought before the board at its weekly meeting Wednesday evening, when a farm woman was charged with charging excessive prices for eggs. If buyers go to the farm for the eggs, the farmer can charge no more than wholesale ceiling prices, plus two cents if he sells a dozen eggs in cartons. If the farmer brings the eggs in to the buyer, he may charge the retail ceiling prices, but no higher, the board explained.

Murder Charge May Be Denied By Lumberman

Apparent Defense Counsel To Make Denial As Defense In Slaying Accusation

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa., Oct. 4.—(INS)—Counsel for Kenneth Ferrell, 31, accused of the Memorial Day slaying of Charles Randall, 37, on a lonely road near Harveys Lake, apparently was preparing today to deny the murder charge lodged against the Loyalville lumberman.

Edward McGovern, of Wilkes-Barre, chief counsel, painstakingly drew from physicians in the Wyoming county court at Tunkhannock tha they were not able to determine from examinations of the body whether Randall died from a blow on the head or from bullet wounds.

The witnesses, headed by Dr. C. H. Dewan, pathologist at the Robert Packer Hospital in Sayre, testified that the wounds indicated the shots were fired downward. He pointed up the possibility that whoever held the gun was standing above the victim or that Randall was crouching when he met death.

Six Bullet Wounds

Six bullet wounds were found on the Harveys Lake boat concessionaire's body after it was discovered by 15-year-old Richard Rice. Randall also had been bludgeoned, according to police.

Mrs. Florence Randall, 38, widow of the victim, has been accused of participating in the slaying. She was on hand making notes as the testimony unfolded. The mother of two children, Mrs. Randall was said by police to have had a clandestine romance with Ferrell. She will stand trial after Ferrell's case is completed.

Ferrell, who has pleaded innocent, was inconspicious in the crowded courtroom as McGovern and District Attorney Robert Trembath dueled over testimony.

The jury of seven men and five women viewed the victim's blood-stained clothing offered in evidence for the prosecution by State Police Sgt. Morgan B. Davis, of the Tunkhannock sub-station.

Faculty And Students To Lead Westminster Prayer Week Period

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 4.—Spiritual Emphasis Week at Westminster College will be observed Monday through Friday, Oct. 8-12, in evening services beginning at 7 p. m.

A different method of conducting the spiritual services has been planned this year. Faculty members and students will take charge of nightly services in Wallace Memorial Chapel replacing the annual custom of bringing in an outside speaker to lead the discussion and prayers.

Faculty professors who will speak are Dr. J. W. Creighton, Monday; Coach Grover C. Washabaugh, Tuesday; Dr. Virginia T. Everett, Wednesday; Dr. Gilbert Taylor, Thursday; and Dean John R. Spicer, Friday.

No Formal Social Season This Year At White House

'For Many The War Is Not Yet Over' Is White House Announcement

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The White House announced today there will be no formal social season at the executive mansion this winter because of food shortages and the fact that "for many the war war is not over."

White House social secreary, Mrs. James Helm, and Mrs. Truman's personal secretary, Miss Reathel Odum, held a news conference to keep the press informed of White House plans. "Mrs. Truman does not expect to meet the press personally.

It was explained that the decision not to hold formal state dinners and state receptions was in line with Mrs. Truman's belief that "for many the war is not over."

"Mrs. Truman has decided that in view of the shortages of food and the families with men still serving abroad, that it would be inappropriate to launch formal state dinners and state receptions this winter," Mrs. Helm explained.

The last formal state reception held in the White House was an Army-Navy reception given on February 11, 1941. White House sources said that the last state dinner was "about two years before that date."

The two social secretaries said that after December 1st Mrs. Truman will give several teas and luncheons to various groups of women such as the Cabinet ladies, congressional wives and women serving in Congress.

Express Embargo May Be Caused By Strike Move

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(INS)—An embargo on American Railway Express deliveries in nine of the nation's largest cities, which would cripple major industries, appeared likely today as drivers and helpers went ahead with their plans for a walkout effective Sunday at midnight.

A company spokesman said the strike would make an embargo necessary, to prevent the accumulation of mountains of goods at distribution points in cities where the strike is threatened. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Cleveland, Jersey City and Newark.

The strike was voted last Friday by Railway Express drivers and helpers, affiliated with tht AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, which is seeking a 20 per cent wage increase, a closed shop and shorter work week.

SMALL BLAZE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

Prompt discovery of the fact that a piece of insulating board had fallen down onto the smoke pipe from the furnace at St. John's Lutheran church, on Neshannock avenue, at 10:30 o'clock this morning, averted what might have been a more serious fire, Fire Chief James E. Thomas reports.

Some of the ladies of the church were in the building and notified firemen, who extinguished the fire with a minimum of loss.

Charges German Attempt To Get Security Control

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Rep. Coffee (D) Wash., charged today that international cartel interests, headed by the giant German monopoly I. G. Farbenindustrie, are attempting to obtain control of the United Nations security organization.

Their aim, he stated, is "first, to control the peace, and then, to prepare for the next war."

Coffee expressed fear that if the international cartels obtain control of the peace mechanism, the secret of atomic power will pass into their hands.

Coffee warned that America must be on guard "against the scheming of the cartel leaders, and especially those in the background of the I. G. Farben cartels who are right now using political influence in unexpected places in order to be permitted to revive their private international superstate...."

Coffee asserted that a representative of I. G. Farbenindustrie blocked action against cartels at the League of Nations economic conference at Geneva in 1927. The same influences are now at work, he added.

Widow Is Placed On Witness Stand In Murder Trial

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa., Oct. 4.—(INS)—Mrs. Florence Randell, 38, accused of participating in the Memorial Day slaying of her 37-year-old husband, was summoned to the witness stand today at Tunkhannock by Wyoming County District Attorney Robert W. Trembath.

Judge E. B. Farr advised Mrs. Randall that she could refuse to answer questions which might incriminate her.

She was on the stand for more than 40 minutes and answered only to routine questions.

Mrs. Randall was called as a commonwealth witness in the case against Kenneth Ferrell, 31, a Loyalville lumberman, who has been charged with the murder of her husband. Randall's body was found on a lonely road near Harveys Lake.

Acting under Judge Farr's advice, Mrs. Randall refused to answer Mrs. Trembath when he asked if she and Farrell had an illicit romance.

Counsel for the defense apparently was preparing to attempt to refute the murder charge lodge against Ferrell.

DOVER SEEKS GAS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—(INS)—That nation's oil strike has shown its effects on Dover, O., it was shown today when a distributor called Safety Director George E. A. Farley asking permission to transport 8,700 gallons of gasoline from a Pittsburgh refinery to Dover.

Mother Of Quads Hopes To Come To U. S. Eventually

Plans To Join Soldier Husband With Surviving Trio Of Quadruplets

HEANOR, Eng., Oct. 4.—(INS)—Norah Carpenter, the mother of quadruplets born to an American soldier, learned today that she may see the father of the children early next year.

The father, former Sgt. William Thompson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., told Norah that he is applying for a passport and hopes to travel to England by the turn of the year.

If possible, the father said, he plans to return with Norah and the three surviving children to the United States.

Norah meanwhile has been tired to the extreme with having to nurse her ailing mother for the past six weeks as well as care for the three surviving children. She is going steadily ahead, however, with plans for an eventual residence in the United States.

Recently, it was disclosed, she swore out affidavits in front of a Birmingham attorney, for a passport application for herself and for the children.

Thompson continues to write regularly every week and Norah also now receives letters from Thompson's relatives who apparently are interesting themselves in the welfare of the children.

The surviving children continue to do well and Norah has just told Thompson that baby Maureen now has 14 teeth.

Longshoremen In New York Strike

Forty Thousand Are Voting Today On Whether To Continue Runaway Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Forty thousand longshoremen and other waterfront workers were voting today on whether to continue a three-day-old runaway strike which has completely halted shipping in the New York port area and threatened to spread to other cities.

President Joseph C. Ryan of the AFL International Longshoremen's association, after a three-hour meeting last night with the union's wage negotiating committee, said results of the vote on a proposed new contract probably would be announced by 4 p. m. today.

Meanwhile waterfront areas were ominously quiet, with a complete shutdown of loading and unloading of 100 American and foreign ships now in port, including nine troopships due to sail soon to pick up troops overseas and return them home.

Sixty-eight of the affected vessels were American flagships, including the Argentina, fitted to transport 5,000 troops, and eight Liberty ships converted to carry 750 troops each.

The walkout was touched off Monday after the Grace line refused dockworkers' demands that sling loads for S. S. Daulton Mann be limited to 2,240 pounds. The rank and file at the time had not voted on a new contract negotiated in behalf of some 20 locals with the New York Shipping association, bargaining agents for the major shipping lines.

Lausche said he would have "nothing further today," but admitted he had met with Lemay at the Columbus airport last night and talked with him for an hour.

Lemay, 38, is chief of staff to Gen. Carl Spaatz.

Tigers And Cubs Ready For Second Series Game

Wyse Vs Trucks On Mound Today In Crucial Game

Chicago Cubs Chase Newhouser In Third Wednesday In Surprise 9 To 0 Win

CUBS LOOK LIKE CHAMPS YESTERDAY

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Services Sports Editor)

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—A Chicago Cub team which plays a field in a maner at least slightly reminiscent of the revered tradition established by Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance today continued to provide most of the thrills and demand most of the cheers as the 1945 baseball season progressed into the second game of the world series.

They dethroned the St. Louis Cardinals, ruling champions of the National league for three years and now, apparently, are determined to humiliate the Detroit Tigers.

This depended to a large extent on what Hank Wyse could do this afternoon for the Cubs against the Tigers' Virgil Trucks. The Cubs, in any case, were running in front by virtue of Hank Borowy's 9-0 win over Lefty Hal Newhouser and a trio of succeeding hurlers in the opening game yesterday.

Wyse Vs. Trucks

Wyse, a chunky good-looking righthander who won 22 games this season to help annex the National league pennant for Chicago opposed the Tigers today with a snappy fast ball, a befuddling sinker, and the abilty to pace himself better than anybody since Grover Cleveland Alexander, according to Manager Charlie Grimm.

His opponent, the aforesaid Trucks, sometimes called "Fire" Trucks because he is supposed to be hotter than Bob Feller with a fast ball, faced the task of beating Wyse and reinstalling the Tigers in the world series.

The Cubs yesterday were pretty wonderful—Borowy's pitching and his teammates' hitting—but utterly superb was this Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance business. There have been few teams ever to field through a world series game like the Cubs did yesterday.

Cubs Look Good

Their infielders ran off two vital double plays, and their outfielders—Peanuts Lowrey in left, and Pafko in center, and Nicholson in right—cut down extra base hits all afternoon with throws that would have gone straight through the eye of a needle.

As a matter of fact, the Cub fielding was the dominant feature with Cavarretta contributing three plays around first base which, coupled with his hitting, made him perhaps the standout in the opening game. His hitting, incidentally, included two singles, besides his home run, in four official times at bat.

To sum it all up, the Cubs hit better, had better pitching, and like it was saying, fielded in the fashion of Tinker-to-Evers-to-Chance in the infield and played an outfield game even better than that.

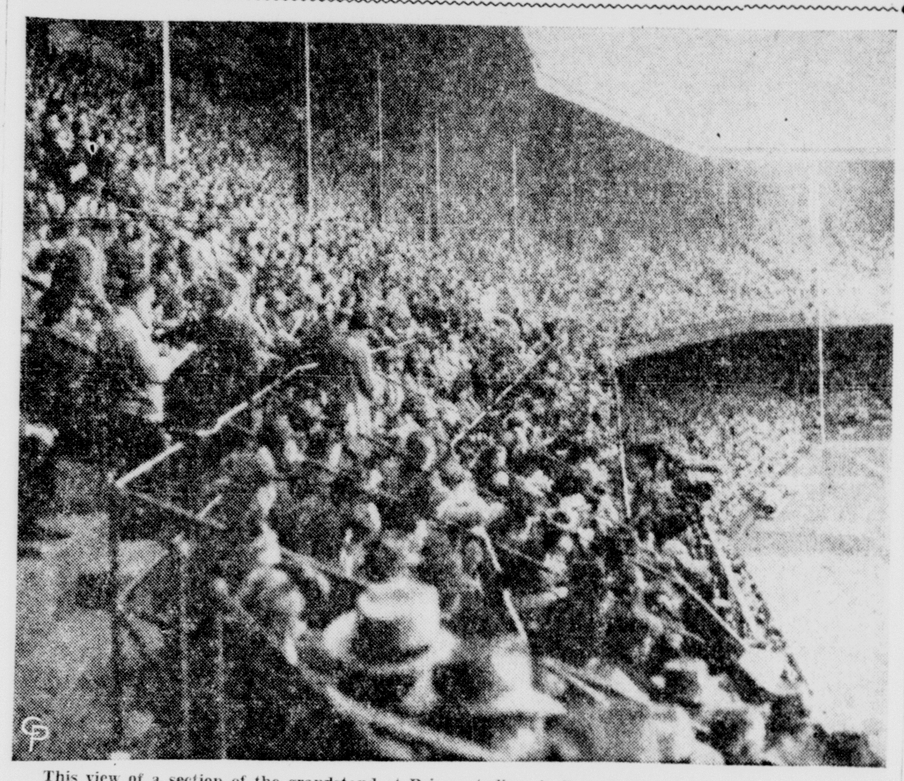

Lineups For Today

Here are the batting orders and umpires for the second game of the 1945 world series today:

Chicago (N.L.)	Detroit (A.L.)
Hack, 3b	Webb, ss
Johnson, 2b	Mayo, 2b
Lowrey, lf	Cramer, cf
Cavarretta, 1b	Greenberg, lf
Pafko, cf	Cullenbine, rf
Nicholson, rf	York, 1b
Gillespie, c	Outlaw, 3b
Hughes, ss	Richards, c
Wyse, p	Trucks, p

HERE'S SOME OF THE 54,637 WHO SAW CUBS TRIUMPH

This view of a section of the grandstand at Briggs stadium in Detroit shows part of the huge crowd of 54,637 which saw the Chicago Cubs, National league champions, crush the Detroit Tigers, American league champions, 9-0, in a surprisingly decisive win in the first game of the 1945 world series. The day was cold and gloomy but not nearly so gloomy as the Tiger fans who saw their favorites outpitched and outhit throughout the game.

Inside Story On How Borowy Got Away From Yanks

Manager Joe McCarthy Gave Final Word And Larry MacPhail Peddled Him To Cubs

CUBS REALLY WANTED BONHAM

By CASWELL ADAMS
(International News Service Sports Writer)

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—(INS)—"I'm not sorry that I made the deal" howled Larry MacPhail, president of the New York Yankees, when accosted with a question that prompted such a reply.

The question had to do with how Larry now felt after Hank Borowy, Yankee property until late July, had proved a world series success.

"It would be very interesting," MacPhail said, if Gallagher (Cub general manager) would reveal the details of the telephone calls we had before the deal was made. Now look here. The Boston Red Sox had four days to make up their mind on Borowy. And Gallagher really wanted Ernie Bonham. I got Bonham waived out of the American League. And in the meantime I talked to Gallagher about Borowy.

Plenty of Mazuma

"I wanted $100,000 for the guy and I told Gallagher that he was having a great year at the box office and that he'd have to give Uncle Sam half of the sale price in taxes anyway and that he'd be saving $50,000 when he bought him. The price was finally $95,000 so Gallagher saved almost the $50,000.

"Borowy had until June 15 to show me that he could deliver. I figured he wasn't delivering, so I went to our manager, Joe McCarthy, and he's a capable manager, and he said it was OK to ask for trades on Borowy. And I'm not sorry that I made the deal.

"No matter what happens from now on in or before, Borowy got $20,000 with me and didn't earn it. He's making more now I think."

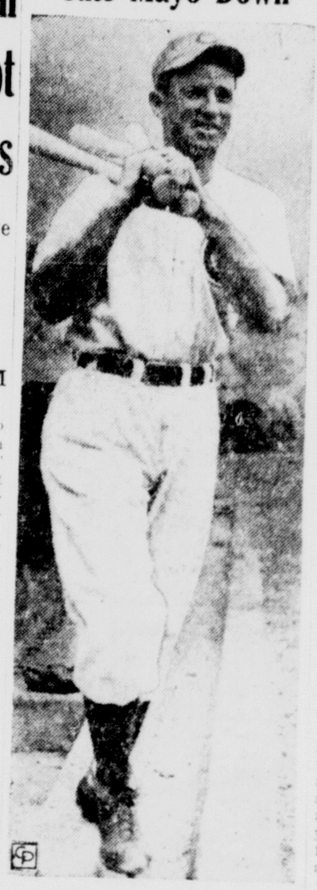

How Borowy Did It

Now for the nude numerals: In winning the first game yesterday, Borowy threw 146 pitches. Which is not a few. Sixty-four of those were balls and exactly sixty-four were strikes, including fouls. As for Newhouser, who gave up eight hits and seven runs in two and two-thirds innings (and hit into a double play), he threw forty-nine times towards the plate. Seventeen of those brave tosses were balls and twenty were strikes. Incidentally Hal struck out the Cub side in the second on 13 pitches.

Chandler Booed

The boos which greeted the introduction of Happy Chandler, lord high commissioner of baseball, were rivaled, in the memories of the oldest habitues, by the Racous rasberry that split the soft Philadelphia air the day in 1931 when then President Herbert Hoover showed up for the series. Incidentally, Chandler had practiced the "first ball throw" five times. And before hordes and phalanxes of photographers.

Cuts Mayo Down

Andy Pafko, Cubs centerfielder, made a great throw yesterday to Hack, cutting down Eddie Mayo of Detroit who tried to make third base on Hank Greenberg's single in the fifth. Cubs won 9-0.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

DAVE EGAN, Sports Editor of the Boston Record has come forth with the suggestion that ring officials be provided with ear-muffs. Egan writes: "Sometimes there is a suspicion that fights are judged not on the sense of sight but on the sense of hearing, and sometimes I have the feeling that he who has the larger and more vociferous cheering section automatically gets the close ones," hence his suggestion. . . . Commenting on baseball Egan writes that "All the rules of baseball seem to have been declared off with the unanimous consent of the moguls since the death of Judge Landis, and the only rule that is left, apparently, is for each mogul to scrounge around and make as much money as he possibly can. MacPhail violated one of the fundamental rules of baseball when he sold Borowy after the June 15 deadline and the schedule, formerly looked upon as something handed down from on high, has been shuffled around by the moguls to suit themselves.

It was with regret that the writer learned of the death Monday of a valued friend of years standing — John J. Ryan, or Jack, as he was known to most of us in sport circles. He passed away at the age of 87 at Pittsburgh and was laid to rest at Crafton this morning. It was our pleasure years ago to often sit for hours with he, Ad Thatcher and Jimmy Dunn and we learned plenty from Jack about folk events in the past. Some years ago he managed Jimmy Dunn and in his travels here and there he became intimately acquainted with some of the bigger figures in sporting circles.

Roy Richwine, owns the William Grove, Pa., auto race track and he has a live press agent. Here's why: George Shelley, the reporter, sent out pre-race stories and unlike most exploitationists followed the event with stories telling how the event turned out. Tod Horn won the 30 lap Victory race, Shelley reported. This might be a tip to some people who have charge of sports. Newspapers do not have sufficient help to send a reporter around to them all, hence those who receive a pre-event story usually scores a hit when they make a quick and accurate report after the event. . . . The writer unintentionally misquoted Bill Andrews yesterday having reported Bill said the late George Muse did not play football but did participate in soccer. The fact is Muse did play football and to some is regarded as the father of local football.

COACH GIVES UP

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 4.—(INS)—A poor showing and the failure of members of the Georges twp. high school grid squad to train was given today as the cause for the resignation of Coach George (Jock) Adams.

In four starts, George twp. has lost three games and won one.

NEW HALFBACK FOR PITT

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—(INS)—In a move to add weight to the backfield, Coach Clark Shaughnessy is experimentaing with Hal Wertman, freshman fullback of Shamokin, at right halfback for the Pitt Panthers' clash with Bucknell this Saturday.

Steelers Prepare For Sunday Game

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Two long workouts and a scrimmage game were scheduled today for the Pittsburgh Steelers in preparation for Sunday's game with the New York Giants.

In the scrimmaging yesterday, two players were knocked out of the lineup. Quarterback John Naloti, with a sprained ankle, and Garth Chamberlain, a guard, with a muscular injury. Center Leon Pense is slated to replace Naiti in the lineup.

Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State will name his football captain prior to each game again this fall. He adopted this plan in 1943. His lettermen will name an honorary captain at season's end.

Altoona Looms Title Barrier

New Castle High Gridders Face Tough Afternoon At Altoona Saturday

Looming ahead like a high mountain peak in a soupy fog is the big Altoona High Lions football team, standing in the way of New Castle High's rush to the Class AA W.P.I.A.L. title. Saturday afternoon New Castle faces the Lions at Altoona. The kickoff is slated for 2:30 o'clock.

New Castle with two Class AA games in the bag already—Butler and Sharon—needs this one Saturday in their forward march to a possible meeting with Donora High in a post-season playoff.

This will be the first test in Class AA for Altoona, the Lions having lost to Westinghouse and defeated Pittsburgh South in previous starts this year, neither in Class AA.

Four On Crippled List

Altoona defeated New Castle here last year 13 to 7 and for that reason the New Castle boys are hitting just a little harder in the workouts this week. The Bridenbaugh machine wants to win this important tussle. Much depends upon how "Monty" Klee, assistant coach and high trainer, can get the cripples in shape for the game—big Lynn Betts, Sammy Flora, Bob Reed and Gene Gribble. Stewart has fully recovered from the shock he received last week and will start at his regular left guard post, it was announced.

If New Castle's favorites play the same kind of a game at Altoona that they did avenging the East High Youngstown and Sharon defeats of last year, in the two last games played here, the Altoona Lions are in for a twisted tail late Saturday afternoon.

Fair Or Foul

By LAWTON CARVER
(International News Service Sports Editor)

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—Uncle Charlie Moran was out on his farm near Horse Cave, Ky., cutting corn when Jess Stone of Louisville drove up and said: "Let's go to the world series."

It was as casual as that.

This is the same Charlie Moran who for a half century has been one of the leading figures in football and baseball and about whom there must be a million stories.

The highlight of his career, perhaps, came in 1921 when he took his little Center college football team East and beat an unsuspecting Harvard.

Was Good Umpire

Or the highlight may have been the day he decided to become a baseball umpire. He umpired less than two years in the minors before going to the majors for a stand of 23 years.

He was pretty tough. Not very big, he played fullback in college and he both caught and pitched in the minors and for the St. Louis Cardinals, and he always was a pretty fair hitter.

Uncle Charlie sat in his hotel room telling about the old days of football and baseball and reeled off the magic names of Silk O'Loughlin, Tim Hurst, Billy Evans, Brick Owen, Bill Klem, Bob Emsley, Ernie Quigley and others who made umpiring a mission in life for the few so gaited that they could fit its exacting requirements.

"Well, I guess an umpire has to have judgment and courage and baseball knowledge, perhaps in that order, to be good," said Uncle Charlie. "I won't even mention honesty. That'd be like saying a man had to have oars to get across a river in a row boat."

Made Chandler Angry

Asked if he ever called any wrong, he said, "My best answer to that goes this way:

"One time years ago our present baseball commissioner, Happy Chandler, questioned me on a decision where I had called a ball fair and he thought it might have been foul by a couple of inches.

"I told him then, and I say now, that I couldn't have made a mistake because it wasn't nothing until I called it."

So he sat Wednesday at the world series, watching the drama swirl around others, the same sports classic in which, just a few years ago, when he was already old, Joe Gordon hit him in the mouth with a double play throw, brought the blood and broke his upper plate.

He pulled out his teeth today and showed us the scars of that, and pridefully said: "But I went on umpiring that game. If you remember, I didn't quit.

State-Colgate Play Saturday

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 4.—(INS)—Coach Bob Higgins said today that it would be "foolhardy" for Penn State to rate three new speedy backs on the strength of their performance against Mullenberg.

Joe Tepsic, of Slovan, a veteran of the Guadalcanal campaign, appeared to be a standout but Bob Kritzer, of Cairnbrook, and Jim Wolf, of Lancaster, another veteran, were close on his heels.

A better estimate of the trio's ability will be available, Higgins indicated, after the Nittany Lions meet Colgate at State College.

A fourth back, Wallace Triplett, of Cheltenham, expected to recover sufficiently from injuries to take his turn in the backfield against the Red Raiders.

Shenango-Union Face Tough Foes

Union Goes To Bessemer On Friday, Shenango Host To Powerful Hopewell

Shenango High Wildcats and Union High "Scotties" face tough foes on Friday afternoon. The Shenago team battles the powerful Hopewell Township team at Shenango Field at 2:15 o'clock, while Union faces a rough afternoon at Bessemer, starting at 3 o'clock.

Union and Bessemer will be after a leg on the Lawrence County Class B championship, while Shenango seeks revenge on Hopewell for a defeat handed them at Hopewell yast year 30 to 13. Coach Eddie Nahas with a crippled backfield has had the crying towel out all week long. McGuire, Wes Fombelle and DiGiacamo being on the injured list, Nahas has Letera, Cochran and Chuck Tanner in the backfield for Friday, with Tomcyzk likely to start.

Union Wants Revenge

Bessemer hung a 20 to 0 defeat on Union last year and hope to repeat this season, but Union held scoreless in the first three games, is liable to break out in a rash of scoring at Bessemer. At least the two coaches, Pat Patterson and Bob Dinsmore are hopeful of something along the line of touchdowns.

The way it shapes up Shenango and Union are in for some real competition Friday.

Warmer Today In Detroit For Game

DETROIT, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Tiger fans gratefully put their footwarmers and blankets back on the closet shelf today as the weather man predicted a marked temperature rise for the second game of the World Series.

Temperature will be in the high 60s, the forecast said, with partly cloudy skies.

Leo Houck Jr., son of the Penn State boxing coach and former Catholic University athlete, plans to enroll at the Nittany Lion institution after his discharge from the Army Air Corps.

Ellwood Battles Glassport Friday

Wolverines Face Powerful Glassport Gladiators At Ellwood At 8 O'Clock

(Special To The News)

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 4.—Ellwood City High's Wolverine football team faces a new foe Friday night at Lincoln Field, at 8 o'clock—Glassport High Gladiators.

Both Ellwood and Glassport have been beaten this year. Clairton and Johnstown have both bumped Glassport, and Ellwood was upset by Rochester.

But, nevertheless the fans can expect to see a first class battle Friday night. Ellwood bounded back after losing to Rochester with a 19 to 0 defeat of Butler last week. Glassport had a tough afternoon last week at Johnstown losing 10 to 0.

Coach Howard Gills has his Ellwood team in the best of shape for the battle and will try hard to dump Glassport in the first meeting of the schools in their grid history.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4.—(INS)—The State Game Commission reminded Pennsylvania sportsmen today that the 25-day woodcock season will open October 10.

Four woodcocks may be shot daily, but the "possession limit" for the season was fixed at eight.

Ducks may be hunted from October 13 to December 31, the commission announced, the daily bag was limited to 10, including not more than one wood duck, while the season's catch must not exceed 20, the commission added.

Hunters To Use Eastern Standard Time This Season

HARRISBURG, Oct. 4—(INS)—The state game commission pointed out to sportsmen today that the shooting hours for hunting had reverted from eastern war to eastern standard time.

Under the revision, migratory birds may be hunted from one half hour before sunrise to sunset until November 1 when shooting must be confined to the period between 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Starting November 2 the hunting hours will be from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. or sunset, which ever is earlier, the commission reported.

The time schedule for upland game permits shooting between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. on November 1 and from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter. Hunting hours for the season from July 1 to September 30 were extended to a 12½ hour period starting at 6 a. m.

Trappers may not place bait before 9 a. m. on November 1 or 7 a. m. during the rest of the season, the commission added.

Heddleston Back With Titan Team

Promising Freshman In 1943 Returns From Service; Is Fine Forward

NEW WILMINGTON, Oct. 4—The lend-lease program between Westminster college and the armed forces is working in reverse, and the Titans are now reaping the dividends.

Back in February of 1943, in the middle of the season, a strong Titan team was wrecked when the Army called up half of the squad. Among the group was Freshman Don Heddleston, whose capabilities on the hardwood caught Coach Grover C. Washabaugh's eye and earned him a first string forward position.

After over two years of service the Army, Heddleston has received his discharge papers and has returned to Westminster's campus to continue his education and ease the basketball situation considerably.

The speedy cager, who is five feet, 10 inches tall, hails from East Liverpool, O.

SUPPLEMENTAL NOTICE ON HUNTING HOURS

(Clip and Attach to Your License)

The Pennsylvania Game Commission, on the 22nd day of September, 1945, revised its resolutions of June 28, 1945, fixing rules and regulations for the period of October 1, 1945 to September 30, 1946 inclusive, to change the hours in conformance with Eastern Standard Time, as follows:

UPLAND GAME & TRAPPING—On November 1 the hunting hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; thereafter 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, except from July 1 to September 30, inclusive, 6 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Traps for furbearers and raccoons not to be placed before 9 a.m. on November 1 or before 7 a.m. on any later opening date for trapping.

MIGRATORY GAME BIRDS—From beginning of respective open seasons to October 31, inclusive, one-half hour before sunrise to sunset (Federal Hours). On November 1, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. November 2 to end of respective seasons, 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., (unless sunset occurs earlier, when Federal sunset regulation automatically applies).

CONVEYING GUNS & AMMUNITION—The hours for conveying guns and ammunition revert to those stipulated by Sections 702 and 806 of the Game Law, and all hours with reference thereto published in the folder issued with the 1945 licenses now read one hour earlier daily.

I hereby certify the foregoing amendments as and for the act of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, notice of which is being published in summarized form in accordance with the provisions of the Act above cited. MARKET TODAY OFF FRACTIONS

Motor Issues Average Half-Point Easier In Early Trading In Market Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Fractionally lower prices were the rule today in the stock market in forenoon trading.

Volume tended to dry up when prices declined. 240,000 shares changing hands in the first hour.

Motor issus averaged a half point easier, activity in steels lagged with quotations off irregularly. Rails followed a mixed, fractional trend. Trade in other sections of the market was slow. American Airlines dipped a point. Utilities were neglected. Liquor issues were higher again with American Distilling up 2 points. Oils, coppers, and merchandizing issues did little.

Cotton futures featured outside markets, spurting more than 50 cents a sale in the first hour. Bond market quotations were easier. Grain prices slipped fractionally.

Shipping Lack Causes Scarcity Of Bananas Here

No, the banana growers haven't stopped growing bananas; the recent local scarcity of the most popular of imported fruits has been caused by lack of shipping facilities, according to local wholesale houses.

These bananas, it seems, come from Honduras and other parts of Central and South America, as well as some of the southern islands, but the countries from which they come do not have enough boats to meet the demand of the American people for bananas. At the same time, the American vessels are kept busy transporting supplies and food back and forth across the Atlantic and Pacific oceans.

To keep the picture from looking wholly black, the wholesalers point to bunches of green or half-ripe bananas hanging from the roof.

"See, there are some. Not too many, but they're around."

More Coal Mines Reported Closed

Pittsburgh Coal Dealers Establish Own Emergency Rationing Rules

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4.—(INS)—Twenty more Western Pennsylvania mines were closed today as Pittsburgh coal dealers sought means to ease the coal shortage.

With only 1000 tons of coal in retail yards, Pittsburgh dealers have established their own emergency rule, which will require customers to present a physician's certificate of family sickness in order to obtain coal.

Howard D. Gibbs, Dealers' Association executive, said the Pittsburgh situation was "really serious."

Regular deliveries to hospitals will be continued, Gibbs said, pointing out that many truckers were still able to obtain coal from some mines.

The Solid Fuels Administration offices in Pittsburgh and Altoona reported Pennsylvania's shutdown mines numbered 142, making 52,027 miners idle and causing a daily loss of 272,494 tons.

At least 150 mines were down in West Virginia with 40,700 miners out of work. Other mines were reported closing in Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Chicago Cubs Make One Change In Lineup, Put Gillespie Behind Bat

BRIGGS STADIUM, Detroit, Oct. 4—(INS)—Detroit's near-freezing weather was succeeded today by a bright warm sun, and an expected crowd of 55,000 fans made up largely of disappointed local baseball followers came to Briggs Stadium for the second game of the World Series between the Chicago Cubs and the harrassed Tigers.

"Four in a row," was the Cubs' slogan.

One down with six or less to go, Manager Steve O'Neill stuck to his overnight selection of Virgil Trucks, fast-ball pitching right hander, to try to even up the autumn classic for the local forces against right-hander Hank Wyse, picked by Charlie Grimm to make it two straight.

Wyse stakes no claims to such blazing speed as Trucks can put on display, but he has a mixture of swift sinkers and curves that bagged him 22 victories during the National league season. Trucks was in the navy until the final game.

The Tigers stood on their opening game lineup, while Manager Grimm made one tactical change in his array. Paul Gillespie went behind the bat for the Cubs because he is a left-handed hitter.

Brady Dance Revue Thrills Large Crowd

For choregraphic grace and beauty in presentation we give you the Nellie Brady dance revue held Wednesday night, October 3, in the Cathedral auditorium. The revue was presented by students of Nellie Brady and assisting her was another dance instructor, Billie Glenn. From its appearance, its verve, and its all around excellence it might have come by way of Michael Fokine.

Opening the revue, Miss Brady and Miss Glenn appeared in tableaux, garbed in white and flanking an American flag. The program included a lot of former students who are now engaged in teaching and one team, Ruth and Andrew Mazur, known as Fay and Andre, have been engaged in professional dancing for some years.

Jack Bruce "emceed" the revue with Johnny Bonfield providing the orchestra accompaniments. From curtain to curtain the show was an eyeful. It convinced a large crowd of spectators that dance talent is not confined to the Broadway studios.

Violence Occurs In Produce Strike

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(INS)—Violence broke out today in Pittsburgh's eight-day-old AFL produce yard workers strike as negotiations to end the walkout broke down.

Strikers were accused of attacking Morris Mazer, 50, and his nephew, David Lowenthal, 22.

Four men were alleged to have jumped on Mazer's truck when it stopped for a traffic light and beat the pair with fists.

Mazer reported two of the strikers attempted to pull him from the vehicle. Lowenthal finally got the truck started and sped away.

Richard Beamish Is Laid To Rest

Approximately 200 friends, state officials and former newspaper colleagues attended solemn high mass conducted at St. Patrick's cathedral by the Very Rev. Peter M. Stief. He was buried in the Holy Cross cemetery at Harrisburg.
